STREET LIGHTS OUT

Traffic Crippled In Mansfield
By Driving Rain; Lightning
Strikes Trees.

A miniature cloudburst, accompanied by severe lightning, which swept Mansfield and Richland county late yesterday, flooding streets, knocking down trees, disrupting communications, left farmers checking on a high damage to crops today.

Striking with its full force shortly after 6 p. m., the rain and lightning battered the city furiously for almost an hour. Streets in Mansfield became small canals with waterspouts shooting up from overloaded sewers while in the country farmers saw their fields flooded like lakes.

Brewing throughout the day, the cloudburst dropped almost two inches of rain in less than an hour. Although the city felt most of the storm's strength, the west part of the downpour hit Amoy, four miles north of the city on the Bowman street road.

Fields of oats and corn were blown flat, causing unestimated losses and trees fell in all parts of the county. Howard C. Sward, county engineer, said that his workers were called out to remove two trees on the Plymouth-Springmill road, one at each end. The engineer said that although the electrical part of the storm was felt in the northern part of the county, rainfall was much lighter. In the city, motorists and pedestrians crept through blinding sheets of rain. Street lights were out all over the city until after 11 p. m.

Officials of the Ohio Public Service company said that a good deal of difficulty was encountered in the storm. In addition to the

Mansfielder Injured When Ground Caves In on Him.

Steve Petroff, 54 Harker street, suffered a broken collar bone and ribs this morning when a sewer ditch he was digging on Shepard road caved in on him. Workmen dug him out and an ambulance took him to General hospital.

The sewer was part of a house being built next to the home of O. H. McDaniel at 483 Shepard road. Petroff was employed by the R. O. Darling and Son Construction company.

Workmen said he was never completely covered and that his head was above ground all the time.

SHOWS FIREMEN HOW TO DO IT

Man Uses Compound to Extinguish In Oil Fire.

BELLEFONTAINE, O. (AP)—Firemen today praised quick-thinking Frank Joslin, 38-year-old co-owner of a pattern and machine shop, for showing them how to extinguish with little loss a fire that threatened a huge storage of oil.

Joslin first reported the fire, started by lightning last night in a 14,000-gallon tank at the Standard Oil company's pumping station near here. Then, after firemen had called for help from Columbus, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Lima, Joslin told them how to put it out.

At his suggestion, they obtained a five-gallon can of carbon tetrachloride from a local dry cleaning firm, poured it into the tank, and the fire went out.

Pickets Defy Gas In Strike at New Jersey Aviation Plant

Defying clouds of tear gas and bullets, which were fired over their heads by the police, pickets continue to parade outside the plant of Air Associates, Inc., in Bendix, N. J., in an effort to keep workers out. Workers' cars were bombarded with rocks as the day shift reported for duty, and several persons were injured. The CIO United Automobile Workers, Aviation Division, called the strike over dismissal of nine employees. The plant makes parachutes, propeller boosters and other aviation items.

'Friends' Study Soil Projects Here

Delegation Arrives for Inspection of Soil Projects; Bromfield Tells of 'Back to Land' Movement.

Friends of the Land today stopped at Louis Bromfield's Malabar farm as a part of their Ohio tour which took them through neighboring conservation projects and farms to view practical application of conservation methods.

The national organization, devoted to conservation of natural resources, embarked upon the inspection tour today following the opening session of a three-day meeting at Columbus last night.

The delegates set out at dawn on today's 225-mile tour of Ohio which includes stops at Malabar for inspection and lunch, the C. D. Blubaugh farm near Danville, the Mohican state forest and Pleasant Hill and Charles Mill reservoirs, the agricultural experiment station at Wooster, and the government's extensive watershed and hydrologic research station near Coshocton.

Bromfield shared the spotlight at the banquet session last night with Gov. John W. Bricker, Stuart Chase, noted economist, State Geologist Wilbur Stout, C. V. Youngquist, representing the U. S. geological survey in Ohio, Earle H. Clapp, chief of the U. S. forestry service along with other members of the organization.

Bromfield, at the meeting, described his "back to the land" example in Richland county and the natural dividends being paid on his three farms through application of proper conservation methods.

Planes to Swarm on City In Pair of Air Tours Tomorrow

Approximately 95 airplanes will swarm on Mansfield's airport tomorrow.

J. R. Harrington, airport manager, estimated that 50 planes of the Dawn Patrol will land for breakfast from all over Ohio at 8 a. m. Following the patrol at 11:30 a. m., 45 plane pilots in the Junior Association of Commerce's All-Ohio Air-tour will land for a luncheon to be held at Westinghouse cafeteria.

The Dawn Patrol is sponsored by the Aircraft Owners and Pilots' association and each week lands on a different Ohio airport for breakfast. So far this summer the patrol has visited Canton, Lorain, Cleveland, Youngstown, Akron, Toledo and Northfield.

After Mansfield they will breakfast at Alliance, Sandusky, New Philadelphia, Warren and Willoughby.

Hears Statements by U. S. Generals.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Roosevelt went to work today on the message he will send to congress next week urging removal of the one-year limit for military service of draftees, national guardsmen and reserves.

(By International News Service) WASHINGTON—Congressional leaders in military legislation today speculated on the possibility that President Roosevelt, in a message on Monday asking extension of service of selectees, guardsmen and reserves, may ask congress to declare a military emergency.

A declaration that the nation is imperiled, eagerly sought by the army, would not only automatically give the president authority to extend army service but would wipe out restrictions against sending guardsmen and selectees beyond the western hemisphere.

While administration leaders have opposed such a declaration, on the ground that it would arouse widespread opposition and fear, army leaders declared it would be of immense value in training troops.

The senate military affairs committee, now considering a proposal to extend army service, appeared impressed by statements of generals that soldiers in training do not generally appreciate the serious international situation, and that a declaration of an emergency would be of immense value in building the new army.

One important senate leader said that such a declaration might be made with a proviso that troops not be sent beyond the western (Continued on Page 10, Col. 8)

CHECK TAX BILL

Congressmen Give Final Study To Giant Program.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The new $3,504,000,000 tax program went before the house today and means committee today for last minute study amid indications that members would make no further changes in the steeply increased taxes they voted on corporate and individual incomes and on luxury purchases.

The committee arranged to dispose of motions to reverse some of its previous decisions, particularly on the method of computing corporation excess profits and on a provision requiring married persons to file joint income tax returns.

Members said privately that if they reversed themselves on any point, the whole bill might have to be revised. House leaders have decided tentatively to call up the bill for debate the week beginning July 28.

Approve $120,000 Bond Issue For New Westbrook Clubhouse

Stockholders of the Westbrook Country club last night approved the issuance of $120,000 in bonds to finance the construction of a new clubhouse to replace the one razed by fire six weeks ago.

Following action, the board of directors of the company met and named a five-man building committee to supervise the construction.

Named on the committee were E. W. Loughridge, chairman; L. W. Olson, C. A. Jones, W. J. Spreng and Dr. J. S. Hattery. Directors of the company said today that the committee would have full charge of all construction details, including design and plans of the structure.

Fierce Battle Raging Along Moscow Route

Turks Report Reds Mass Million Men To Protect Caucasus, Baku Oil Region; Nazis Thrust at Kiev and Leningrad

STOCKHOLM, Sweden—(UP)—The newspaper Al-Idhanda, quoting radio Leningrad, said that Moscow suffered a heavy aerial bombardment at noon today. It was reported that radio Moscow had been silenced by many air raid alarms.

(By United Press) Fierce fighting raged today in the Smolensk area, 200 to 225 miles from Moscow, as the Russo-German war neared the start of its fifth week.

Russian reports indicated that the Smolensk battle may be the bitterest since the Nazi invasion started 28 days ago. Moscow indicated that the key city, an important roads and railway center, still was in Russian hands but the German high command said it already had been captured and that Nazi troops were pushing on in the Moscow direction.

German reports claimed that the Luftwaffe was concentrating on attacks east of the fighting lines where troop concentrations and communications were attacked in an attempt to prevent the Russians from massing new reserves and bringing them into action.

A Turkish report of unknown reliability claimed that the Russians have massed a special army of 1,000,000 men to protect the Caucasus and Baku oil region and that another great reserve force, estimated at 4,000,000 men, was held in reserve on the central fighting fronts.

These claims were attributed to Axis diplomats arriving in Turkey from Russia but there was no way of determining their authenticity.

They were coupled with assertions that Germany probably will strike on to the east if she succeeds in overrunning the Ukraine and Caucasus, driving for Iran and India.

The Turks believed that if the Germans succeed in sweeping across south Russia Turkey shortly will be faced with strong Nazi pressure, presumably for collaboration in the eastward drive and possibly in a new threat to the Suez canal. The prospect of any early Nazi invasion attempt in the British Isles was thought to be slight.

At 12:15 today in London (5:15 p. m. Friday EST) "Col. V. Britton," the mysterious head of the organization which under the symbol of "V" is conducting the new anti-German propaganda campaign, called on "the oppressed peoples" of Europe:

To begin mobilizing at midnight a secret "Victory" army. To vote tomorrow to continue faithfully to fight Germans by all means.

To take every opportunity tomorrow to show the Germans that the "army" is mobilizing by chalking the symbol "V" for Allied victory, everywhere they can, and to beat out the "dot-dot-dot-dash" which in the Morse telegraphic code represents the letter V.

Former Congressman-at-Large In Charge of Defense Drive.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—John McSweeney, of Wooster, former congressman-at-large from Ohio, today assumed his duties as Ohio administrator of defense savings, at a salary of $6,500 a year.

McSweeney, unsuccessful candidate for the U. S. senate a year ago, was named last night by Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau.

In his new job, McSweeney will handle the work of stimulating and promoting the purchase of defense bonds and defense savings stamps in Ohio.

PREDICTS DRIVE AMONG FARMERS

Representative Says Agents Will Seek Support For 'War.'

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Rep. Bernard J. Gehrman, Prog. Wis., charged today that the agriculture department will begin a nationwide drive within a week to win farm support for "the war."

Gehrman said he had been informed that the department would use its soil conservation and marketing quota enforcement agents in 3,000 counties.

The agents, Gehrman said in an interview will receive $5 a day—their pay when engaged in ordinary government business. They would contact farmers who have received government loans and soil conservation payments, he said.

PREDICT LAW TO CUT WHEAT QUOTA PENALTY

Farm Leaders Expect Passage Of Bill Under Parity Loan Program.

(By International News Service) WASHINGTON—Farm leaders in congress today predicted passage early next week of legislation to relieve small wheat producers from stiff penalties on excess wheat under the government's new 85 per cent "parity" loan program.

Chairman Fulmer (D) S. C., of the house agriculture committee, said that the house on Monday "probably" would pass and send to the senate his bill amending AAA law to cushion the present 49 cent per bushel penalty on wheat grown in excess of recently voted quotas.

"I think the bill probably will pass in the house Monday and should get attention in the senate right away. It will go through all right. I don't know of anyone who is against it. It will be a great help to a lot of farmers."

Fulmer's bill would enable farmers to escape the penalty by holding wheat in storage. They would get a loan on it at 60 per cent of the rate extended to farmers whose plantings fall within acreage allotments. The present law virtually would force them to sell on the market at a penalty to obtain needed income. The new bill would permit holding excess over for sale as part of next year's crop.

Bills have been introduced to slash the 49 cent penalty to 15 cents, but agriculture committee members say this would lead to large scale dumping on the market and collapse of prices. Farmers who do not cooperate could sell their wheat at a favorable price on a market now supported by government loans. The average net government loan rate on wheat grown on allotted acreages is 98 cents.

"We will get action and approval early this week," said Rep. Harry E. Coffee (D) Neb., a committee member. "We don't want to force penalties on little farmers who planted more than they can sell. Everybody is agreed on that."

The Nebraska added that small farmers are particularly hard hit by the penalties because they aren't able to meet operating expenses as well as the larger operators.

BOOM FERGUSON FOR GOVERNOR

Associates Sound Out State Attitude on Nomination Of Ohio Auditor.

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS — An associate of State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson reported today that Ohio Democrats were being sounded out for their attitude toward running Ferguson for governor next year—and added that the results were "very good."

O. P. Van Schoik, chief relief examiner in Ferguson's office, said he took it upon himself to learn "what chance Joe would have."

And sentiment in favor of Joe is very good—better than his fondest expectations," Van Schoik commented. "Key boys in last year's campaign have been canvassing rural communities the past few weeks and have found these folks strong for Joe."

Van Schoik, who last year directed Ferguson's successful campaign for a second four-year term, said that the auditor had been left in the dark about the sounding-out—out sentiment business. It was undertaken, he added, because "numerous party leaders felt that the auditor, who survived last year's Republican landslide, has the best chance of winning."

Cards reading, "on his record as state auditor, the people's choice for governor," and bearing Van Schoik's signature, are being circulated in behalf of Ferguson throughout rural Ohio. Van Schoik said no attempt would be made to circulate metropolitan counties until after the November election "because the city folks don't have much time for state campaign until after that."

Ferguson has been mentioned frequently of late as a possible contender for the Democratic nomination next spring. But so have several others, including National Committeeman Charles Sawyer, Secretary of State John E. Sweeney, Rep. Robert T. Secrest of Caldwell, Ray Miller of Cleveland, Walter F. Heer of Columbus, and Clarence Knisley, former state treasurer and now a member of the state industrial commission.

SUGGESTS INDUSTRIAL PEACE PLAN USING TOLEDO FORMULA

(By Associated Press) An industrial peace formula—strike moratorium committees composed of representatives of labor, management and the public—was placed before the nation for consideration today by Albert W. Hawkes, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Pointing to success of the plan in Toledo, Hawkes, in a radio address last night offered it as a national solution to labor dispute problems.

He said local chamber of commerce could establish the committees and push voluntary mediation. In Toledo, said Mayor John Q. Carey of that city, the board of five labor, five industrial and eight public members, saved many millions of dollars in wages and man hours of production.

Edmund Ruffin, director of the board, on the same radio program said in six years 181 disputes involving 36,244 workers had been settled without work stoppage.

In a speech at Blue Ridge, N. C., last night, Alvin E. Dodd, president of the American Management association, said labor as well as business must adapt itself to the emergency.

In a radio talk from New York George Meany, AFL secretary-treasurer, said only one man-day of work had been lost by strikes of AFL unions in every 2,400 man-days of defense work done—or one twenty-fourth of one per cent.

A 10-day strike at the Sealed Air Corporation, at Muskegon, Mich., supplier of piston rings and allied products for 27 industries, many engaged in defense work, ended today with signing of a compromise contract between the firm and the United Automobile Workers (AFL).

Lightning Starts Fires That Cause $13,000 Damage. DAYTON — (AP) — Three fires started by lightning in western Ohio were blamed today for damage estimated at more than $13,000.

Three men risked their lives to extinguish an oil tank blaze at Bellefontaine. Gas fumes above a Standard Oil company tank had caught fire, and the men put out the flames by pouring chemicals through a vent from the top of the tank.

Two barns were destroyed by fire after lightning struck them. A barn on the O. S. Young farm near Troy burned with a loss of $5,000, and another one on the farm of Louis Hoelle, near Hamilton, was burned with $8,000 to $10,000 damage.

American Export will start service even if it fails to obtain an air mail contract from the government, Green said. The senate last spring refused an air mail subsidy to the company.

Administration Would Raise Security Payments. WASHINGTON — (AP) — Testimony before a house committee today disclosed that administration officials are considering drastic revisions of social security laws that might broaden and increase payments to unemployed, disabled and aged persons and step up federal donations to states for care of needy.

Proposed revisions were outlined in a statement presented by Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the Social Security board, to the Social Security committee which is studying labor migration to defense areas. Altmeyer said he and his aides were "getting recommendations in shape" for submission to the bureau of the budget.

WELCOME TO

A daughter, born to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bernier, 58 Helen avenue, yesterday at General hospital.

A son, born to Mr. and Mrs. Sam Tullis, 182 East First street, Thursday at the home.

A. H. Morris of Hancock Heights no longer worries about the pronunciation of "tomatoes" or "potatoes." What puzzles him is how to tell a potato from a tomato, and he isn't kidding. He reports as absolute truth that when he went out in the garden yesterday to dig some potatoes, he found small tomatoes growing on the potato vines, apparently the result of seeds scattered over the ground in the preceding season. He failed to notice whether there were potato or tomato bugs crawling on the vines.

Three Richland county draftees were very much surprised Thursday night to hear their order numbers coincide with the serial numbers given them previously. Both Charles V. Patterson, 160 West Third street, and Raymond J. O'Leary, Lexington R. D. 2, received No. 11 for both serial and order numbers.

Charles H. Schlegel, 55 West Arch street, received No. 74 for an order number while his serial number was 73.

A Mansfield restaurant owner complained to police last night of the method used by an unidentified youth to get a meal. The restaurant owner told police that the young man ordered a meal and ate it and then went upstairs to a room. A few minutes later, the owner found the room had been knocked out and the diner had been laid across the roof and down the backstairs without paying his bill.

Jean Ann Morley, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Morley, Ninth avenue, has a cat that likes to ride in her doll buggy. Yesterday she discovered the cat along with five others nesting in a blanket in the buggy. She has a family now of two black kittens, two white ones and the other a mixture. The kittens arrived as some sort of a birthday gift. Jean Ann will be four next Tuesday.

Sheriff Returns Couple to Ohio On Murder Charge. SEATTLE — (AP) — Sheriff Roy C. Ritter of Ashtabula county, Ohio, will leave tonight for Jefferson, O., returning for trial Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Nemic, charged with first degree murder in the death of Mrs. Catherine Nemic, 62, Nemic's mother, near Jefferson.

The party also will include the Nemic's young son and the sheriff's wife. Mrs. Ritter flew here, arriving Wednesday.

Mrs. Nemic was found dead in her home near Jefferson. Roland Pontius, Ashtabula county prosecutor, charges the son and his wife strangled the woman about June 22. He issued the murder warrants on which the Nemics were arrested here.

DEATH CLAIMS

MRS. MILLER. CRESTLINE — A life-long resident of Sandusky township, Mrs. Sarah Ellen Barr Miller, 78, wife of Henry F. Miller, died last night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Alta Scharf, of Baltic.

Mrs. Miller had made her home with her daughter since last fall. She was born in Sandusky township Jan. 26, 1863, where she spent her life. She was a member of the First Lutheran church at Crestline.

Mrs. Miller is survived by her husband, a daughter Mrs. Alta Scharf with whom the Millers made their home, two sons, Rev. Robert H. Miller, of Tiro, and Paul R. Miller, of Crestline, and a sister, Mrs. F. P. Voegelé, of near Crestline.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Joan Leslie is an unusual 16-year-old. She doesn't want to be 18, because she's having "so much fun" being her age she wouldn't want to miss it.

Of course she's unusual, too, in that she's just played leading lady to Gary Cooper (more than twice her age) in "Sergeant York" and has done a slightly terrific job of it, to quote the more conservative of her studio admirers. But all that is professional stuff, not too pertinent to a red-headed youngster with braces on her lower teeth and a cute giggle and a turned-up nose and faint freckles.

The real Sergeant York, when talking about the movie to be made of his life, suggested that he didn't want "Gracie" now his wife, played by one of these cigarette-smoking, liquor-drinking movie actresses. No better answer to his requirement, in that respect, could have been found than Joan, whose big off-screen moments in recent weeks were the two Loyola proms she attended with a brother.

How did Mama and Papa Brodell rear a sweet child like this Joan Leslie? They did it on the road, in night clubs, in vaudeville. John Brodell was an accountant in Detroit when depression struck and the family hit on the stage as the way out. Joan was three, Betty and Mary slightly older. They junketed in their old car, from engagement to engagement, and the girls went to schools in towns where they settled down long enough, otherwise Mama was teacher.

Joan did imitations and sang and danced. Joan attracted a movie talent scout who sent her to M-G-M on contract. She had bits in "Susan and God" and other movies, but was released. She went back to the act until the whole family returned. Joan and her imitations played all the casting offices, entertaining the casters but bringing few jobs until Warner's signed her.

Gee, was she thrilled! And gee, it was wonderful to play in pictures with Eddie Albert. She was nervous about her first kissing scene, but Eddie told her it was just a job and why not get it over with? Kissing Gary Cooper—and Gary so famous and important—almost overwhelmed her. Gee!

TOTAL $9,500

Findings Made Against Darke County School Districts.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — State Examiner E. L. Russell reported to the state inspection bureau today findings for recovery totalling $9,539 in Darke county school districts.

The largest items were against officials who he said happened to be interested in companies that sold various things to the school districts.

In New Madison village district, J. W. Flaig, a board member, was asked to return $2,329 representing purchases from the Flaig Lumber Co. of which he was part owner, according to the report. A similar finding of $1,061 was made against Russell Ross in Gettysburg village school district.

SHIPS HIT

British Report German Convoy Attacked Off Dutch Coast. LONDON — (AP) — British Blenheim bombers today attacked a German convoy of the Dutch coast and hit and probably destroyed four ships totaling 22,000 tons, authoritative quarters said.

One ship was said to have been blown up by a hit in the stern while three others were reported set ablaze.

SEES TAX RISE

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Gov. John W. Bricker sees higher taxes and longer working hours as a result of the national defense program. He spoke at a citizenship day rally here last night. The rally was sponsored by the State Employees' league.

NAZIS CHARGE MARSHALL ACTS AS FDR AGENT WITH CONGRESS

BERLIN — (AP) — Diplomatic and political correspondence, organ of the foreign office, charged today that President Roosevelt had assigned Gen. George Marshall, chief of the American army general staff, to induce congress to extend the service terms of national guardsmen and selectees and permit them to serve overseas.

American "interventionists," the publication said, had been "only temporarily" checked by "public objections" to their campaign and were now working through others. "A personality has been forward with a similar propaganda assignment who otherwise is well suited to prepare or carry out objectively, seriously and expertly assignments given him: North American Chief of the General Staff Marshall, it said.

After Roosevelt's demands that congress permit the sending of troops outside the western hemisphere he had to withdraw a few ate vicinity of Kiev, capital of the rich Ukraine area, and were close to Leningrad in a three-pronged action, northeastward from the Lake Peipus corner, east along the Baltic coast and southward from the Finnish frontier.

GERMANS SMASH PAST SMOLENSK IN SHARP DRIVE

Battle Rages Along Route to Moscow; Turks Report Army Missing In Caucasus.

However, the chief German objective—the destruction of the Red army as an effective fighting force—had not been achieved.

The rate of Nazi advance into Russia had slowed considerably from the speedy pace of the initial break-through at the frontier.

In the first 10 or 12 days of fighting the Germans pushed forward at a rate of almost 25 miles a day. The average has now dropped to about 13 miles a day, at the points of deepest penetration.

Berlin has hinted that the German high command over this week-end will make another series of dramatic announcements. However, it was indicated that instead of dealing with territorial gains these will be concerned with the destruction of Soviet armed forces—the number of prisoners captured, planes shot down, etc.

During the week German accounts made it obvious that terrific battles still are going on in many sectors of the deep Stalin fortifications and the high command itself has been forced to take note of severe Soviet counter-attacks.

Moscow said today that the chief German push still is being made in the Smolensk sector but indicated that that key city is still in Russian hands in contradiction to a German high command claim of its capture. Another strong offensive is in progress in the Nevel area, 60 miles north of Vitebsk where the Germans apparently are trying to cut through a large Soviet force that stands on the flank of their drives both toward Leningrad and Moscow.

The Germans reported that German-Rumanian forces have made crossings of the Dniester on the Bessarabian front and that Finnish forces have reached the shores of Lake Ladoga.

Nazi forces were said to be advancing past Smolensk on a 90-mile central front from Vitebsk to Mogilev and German planes were said to have bombed Cherkass, 95 miles southeast of Kiev.

The Russians claimed their air force had destroyed a Nazi aircraft on the Danube. Rome heard that Kiev was encircled. A similar report was circulated by the Germans yesterday.

In Tokyo great emphasis was placed today on the independence of Japan's foreign policy—its independence of both the Soviet-Japanese pact and the tripartite alliance, but chiefly of the pact with Russia. The radical newspaper Kokumin raised a great stir about the "Siberian question" and the alleged "encirclement of Japan" by the United States.

The Royal Air Force was forced to forego its customary bombing of Germany for the second night since June 16th due to bad weather but Air Minister Arthur Sinclair estimated that 300,000 tons of Axis shipping has been sunk by the RAF in five months and an equal tonnage damaged.

At a noted Axis troop concentrations in Samos, Greek island adjacent to the Dodecanese, increasing the belief of the Turks that their turn would be next when, if and as the Germans overrun Russia.

Bombing of Rotterdam as Seen From RAF Plane

Smoke columns roll skyward in Rotterdam harbor as Royal Air Force flyers wing for home after completing one of the most daring daylight raids yet made on German-occupied Holland. This is a radiophoto received from London.

Under state highway patrol escort the flyers will be then driven to Westinghouse cafeteria for lunch. Don Kirkpatrick, JAC president, will act as toastmaster. Following the meal, the flyers will be returned to the airport to demonstrate their planes and a new process of collecting and distributing air-mail without landing.

The three U. S. army planes previously slated to appear with the tour have been recalled by the army because of the national emergency and will be replaced with a bomber from Fifth corps area used for transporting army officers. The bomber is of the type the British have been using to bomb Germany during the past few months. The British call the plane a "Hudson" bomber.

LeFevre said first aid tents and ambulances will be prepared to accommodate any mishaps and that the state highway patrol would direct traffic at the airport.

Tickets for the luncheon, he said, are still on sale at Shumacker's drug store.

Cloudburst Causes High Crop Damage on Richland's Farms

extinguished street lights, residences in the eastern part of the downtown section were without lights for several hours. Throughout the county lightning caused much trouble with farmers' single-transformer lines. The power interruption in the city was blamed on lightning which struck several transformers.

State highway patrolmen reported trees down on Route 39, south of Lucas, on the Church road south of Mansfield. Lightning struck a tree on the Alta-Lexington road.

At Hedges and Second streets, water flooding through a trunk sewer spurted high in the air. S. E. LeMunyon, sewer superintendent, said that the manhole cover had been weighed down with a 100 pound weight during previous storms. Although this prevents the cover from being thrown off, the water spurts up through the holes in the cover like a fountain.

Water coursed through gutters on the city's many hill streets, digging ditches in the unpaved ones and clogging sewers at downtown intersections. Water flooded the Park avenue east subway for a short while. LeMunyon said that there was no backing up of water but that too much fell at once to allow it to run out rapidly.

The same storm which struck Mansfield dealt a much heavier blow further to the east. The southern section of Columbiana county had its worst rain storm in 17 years. Storm damage to highways and bridges was estimated at $100,000 by district state highway officials.

A seven-hour storm occurred, tearing out bridges at Rogers on Route 7, over Elk run on Route 134 and between Lisbon and Fairfield on Route 517. Rain totaled 2.48 inches at East Liverpool, and unofficially much more elsewhere. Elktion and the surrounding territory was cut off from communication for several hours. Some of the houses there had from six inches to three feet of water but Salem firemen, who came to the rescue, had to remove only one family.

One man was hunting for his motor car today. Nineteen cattle belonging to Wade Nuffman, of near Elktion, were washed to another meadow a half mile away. Fair and slightly cooler weather was predicted for Mansfield for tonight and tomorrow as the result of the rains which tumbled the temperature from 79 to 55 degrees in two hours. Average temperature for the day was 67 degrees, four less than the 16-year average. The mercury began a slow climb early today reaching 80 shortly before noon.

In sharp contrast to Ohio's small cloudburst, blistering temperatures and numerous fires are still sweeping the Pacific Northwest. The heat and fires were reported to have taken a heavy toll of lives, timber and grain.

In Oregon, nine deaths were attributed to the heat, four persons drowned and one was killed by lightning. Washington charged two deaths to the heat and reported dozens of prostrations.

Temperatures in the two states have climbed as high as 115 degrees in recent days, breaking all time records in several areas. The weather bureau said temperatures should be somewhat lower today.

Fires, most of them set by lightning, have exacted a toll of timber and wheat.

The regional forest service office at Portland reported 954 lightning-set fires in Oregon and Washington national forests in the past four days. Most of them were controlled before they could do much damage.

Hundreds of other blazes were set by lightning in state and private forest lands. Most of these in Oregon were under control, but hundreds of men were rushed to fire lines in Washington.

Manpower was at a premium because of curtailed CCC camp operations and the reduced unemployment rolls during the defense industrial boom.

The worst fires were reported in the Rapid River sector of the Snoqualmie national forest and in the Wenatchee region of Eastern Washington. Travel was prohibited in the former area, where the main blaze has swept 5,000 acres.

MAYOR NAMES TRAFFIC SQUAD

Appoints Five From List of Nine Eligible For Police Department Posts.

Mansfield force's strength from 29 to 34 men. Three regular police members will aid the new men until they have reached adequate training to handle traffic problems by themselves.

The duties of the new squad will be to enforce all of the city's traffic laws, investigate accidents and to work out means to facilitate the handling of traffic on city streets. Later, some method to eliminate several danger points will be attempted by the new squad. The traffic officers, however, will have full police power.

One of the duties to be taken over by the squad will be the collection of parking meter receipts and the maintenance of the meters.

The squad was created at city council's July 1 meeting. Last Monday, council ordered the appropriation of $6,500 from the parking meter fund to pay the new policemen and five members of the old squad. The five regulars have been paid from license funds which will be used for street or sewer purposes.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crofton, the city's appointing authority, will inform the new men of their appointments today.

BRITISH URGE SECRET ARMY

Call on People of Europe to Organize For Revolution Against Axis.

In New York heard the new "European revolution" station broadcast, casting through the night in German, urging the German people to join in the victory fight.

German stations vainly tried to jam the broadcast after the first few sentences, but the station continued strongly.

"A European revolution is necessary against the Fascist powers, an intimate co-operation of all European people in order to organize a socialist federation of the European peoples," it said. "As difficult as the task may be in the present European situation, everybody must fight with all his means."

Picnic Dainties Found the Cause Of Bruin's Ruin

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP)—"If you feed the bears they may starve to death."

This unique warning to tourists in the Great Smoky Mountains by park rangers carries this explanation:

"Should the bear eat the picnic dainties and dainties, the chances are he won't continue to eat roots, berries and other necessary ingredients. So when Mr. Bear curls up for his long winter nap, he'll starve before awakening because he failed to store up the proper vitamins."

There's another reason why tourists should avoid the black bear. His claws are long and sharp and when food gives out, the bear smacks the first thing within reach.

NO VACATION

SHEENANDOAH, Ia. (AP)—A hive of bees from Harry Pease's apiary near Shenandoah recently left for the south to spend the winter. Pease left for Texas with the hive, taking enough honey to feed the bees on the trip and until they get established. Instead of loafing, as most northerners do when they go south, the bees will gather honey all winter.

NEW USE FOR JUICE

SACRAMENTO, Cal. (AP)—Orange juice will increase the retention in the body of radio-active phosphorus used in leukemia treatment experiments, claim three University of California scientists. "The glucose in orange juice apparently speeds the absorption and aids the retention of radio phosphorus," their report said.

FILLS PULPIT AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH SUNDAY

R. N. McMichael of Lucas, to Preach; Picnic to Be Held Wednesday at Park.

R. N. McMichael of Lucas will occupy the pulpit at St. Paul's Lutheran church Sunday at 10 a. m. in the absence of Rev. Herman L. Gilbert who is chaplain for the Lutheran Synod of Ohio summer school program at Lakeside this week. The children of the church of all ages will convene during the worship period, and the nursery program will be directed by Mrs. Zeve Markov and Ann Marie Pascheilich.

The church and Sunday school picnic will be held Wednesday afternoon and evening at South park with supper beginning at 6:30 p. m. The dinner committee is Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Beilstein, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Linn. Social events will be supervised by Olga Luich, Elizabeth Bollman, Don L. Borchard, Harold Loesch, Virginia Moore and Peter Rebel.

All women of the church have been invited to participate in an India centennial tea which will be held Friday at 2 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Martin W. Wapner at the Reformatory. A varied program will be climaxed by refreshments, and an offering will be received to help the $100,000 program for India missions, celebrating 100 years there in 1942.

Sermon, Musical Program Planned

For the subject of his sermon (tomorrow) at 10:30 a. m., Rev. Albert L. Linder will use "Three Dimensions of Religion."

Lawrence S. Frank, organist, will play the following three numbers: "The Bells of St. Anne de Baupre" for the prelude, "To God on High" for the offertory and "Ein Feste Burg" for the postlude. Clarabelle Merryman, Thelma Vawter, Paul Seifert and W. E. Wygant, Jr., singing as a quartet, will sing "Incline Thine Ear." Wygant will also sing "The Voice in the Wilderness" as a solo.

Other weekly meetings are: The Young people at 6:30 p. m.; Circle No. 1 with Mrs. D. C. Cole, 3:30 p. m.; Thursday, 7:30 p. m., Thursday.

'War' To Be Subject Of Pastor's Sermon

Rev. E. G. Corwin, pastor of the First Methodist church, will speak on "This War—Why Does God Permit It?" tomorrow at 10:30 a. m.

Mary Daubenspeck, M. H. Patterson and James T. Weber will sing "In His Name" and Mrs. Elsie Ireland will play an organ offertory solo called "Intermez-zo."

The Epworth league with Carl Quinn as the leader and Marjorie Beidelschick as the devotional leader will use "What Is the Big Goal in Life?" as its theme at 6:30 p. m.

Other meetings of the week are: The Youth Bible Study class, 7 p. m. Tuesday; The Church Choir picnic at North Lake park pavilion, Thursday at 6 p. m.; choir rehearsal will follow a covered dish dinner.

Assistant Pastor To Give Sermon

Rev. Milton C. Johnson, assistant pastor of the First English Lutheran church, will fill the pulpit at the regular service tomorrow at the 9:45 a. m. service.

Mrs. Clayton Bell, organist, will play "Fantasy of Hymn Tunes" for the prelude and the church quartet will sing "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah." Marion Culler will sing the offertory solo, "O Lord of Life."

Rev. G. E. Swoyer, pastor, will continue his Sunday evening series on the Book of Job at 7:30 p. m. His subject will be "Job's God" and will deal with God's message to the much suffering Job and his "foolish friends."

At 6:30 p. m. the Luther league will hear reports of the national convention. Eleanor Carver, representing the local group; Maryalice Lambright, representing the central conference; and John Linsmeyer, representing the Luther league of Ohio will give the reports.

'Truth,' Subject of Lesson-Sermon

"TRUTH" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in the Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

The golden text is: "O praise the Lord, all ye nations..." For his merciful kindness is great toward us: and the truth of the Lord endureth for ever" (Psalms 117:1,2).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "God is not a man, that he should lie; neither the son of man, that he should repent: hath he said, and shall he not do it? or hath he spoken, and shall he not make it good?" (Numbers 23:19).

Pastor to Talk On Christianity

Rev. C. A. Portz will speak to the congregation at St. Mark's Lutheran church at 10 a. m. tomorrow on "What Do You Mean By Christianity?"

A meeting of the church council, Sunday school officers and teachers and the presidents, secretaries and treasurers of all the organizations in the church will be held at the church Wednesday at 7:45 p. m.

STARTS REVIVAL

Rev. Don L. McArthur, self-styled cowboy singer and preacher, will open his "corral" in a field near the Mansfield armory tomorrow at 7:45 p. m. Rev. McArthur plays the banjo, guitar and saxophone and will give a riding demonstration.

SPEAKS SUNDAY

Jack Curry will be the speaker at the Christian and Missionary Alliance branch No. 2 Sunday at 3 p. m. "The Evangelist of Galilee," will be Curry's subject.

SAY BLACKLIST WILL HIT JOBS OF S. AMERICANS

German Chamber of Commerce Says 100,000 Will Lose Work In Argentina.

(By Associated Press)

BUENOS AIRES—President Roosevelt's proclamation blacklisting 1,800 Latin American firms who do business with the Axis, will result in a heavy increase in South American unemployment, members of the German Chamber of Commerce charged today.

They said at least 100,000 Argentinians would be thrown out of work and that Chilean employment would suffer too.

Axis businessmen said the blacklist was a "political move" which should not be applied to neutral actions in neutral countries. Most of the affected firms, however, declined to comment until their position is clarified.

United States officials everywhere in South America were besieged with inquiries. American firms generally welcomed the proclamation which, they said, removed doubts as to which firms they should deal with.

In Havana, President Fulgenio Batista appointed a commission to study the list of proscribed firms and determine how Cuba could cooperate most effectively with the United States. The finance ministry was said to be ready to act against 80 Cuban firms in the list, as soon as it is received from Washington.

Chile, however, served notice that it did not approve the principle. Chancellor Juan B. Rosetti and Undersecretary of State Marcel Ruiz said: "We have no official knowledge of the blacklist, but in principle, Chile does not recognize black-lists. When the official decision of the United States is communicated to us, necessary measures will be considered which will be adopted."

South American businessmen said the proclamation culminated a gradual, silent campaign of several months in which American firms cooperated in an effort to prevent American products from reaching the Axis.

MOTHER MEETS LONG LOST SON

Small Talk In Beauty Parlor United Mother and Son After 33 Years.

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—The small talk of a Vicksburg, Miss., beauty parlor, where a customer engaged an attendant in conversation while under a permanent wave machine, has united a mother with a son she had not seen for 33 years.

Mrs. L. E. Crofton last saw her boy as he toddled around a corner in Alexandria 33 years ago with her estranged husband. The child was going to get a haircut. That was the last she saw of him.

The years passed and she married again. Her former name was Dees. She turned to the police to find her son. She went to civic organizations.

Recently, a 36-year-old man, a former sailor and father of two children, called her from a funeral parlor early one morning. It was her son, Harold.

The story of the two's search for each other was revealed by Mrs. Crofton.

A Mrs. Morgan—Mrs. Crofton couldn't remember her first name—was "fixing up" to come to New Orleans at a beauty parlor in Vicksburg. The establishment was operated by a Mrs. Dees, Mrs. Crofton related.

The permanent wave made a hit here. A friend asked Mrs. Morgan where she got it, and the Vicksburg woman told her.

"That's funny," the friend replied. "One of my best friends here was a Mrs. Dees once. She is Mrs. Crofton now, but you know she had an awful experience... a child was kidnapped from her years ago and now she doesn't even like to talk about it much. I don't think she ever heard from the boy again. He must be a grown man now."

Mrs. Morgan remembered the incident when she returned to Vicksburg and interviewed the beauty parlor operator. She learned enough to start her thinking and afterward she told Mrs. Dees what she surmised.

GALION GROUP PLANS OUTING FOR AUGUST 6

Parents of Pupils at Nursery School to Hold Annual Affair at Heise Park.

GALION — Now in its sixth summer, the Galion Nursery school has an enrollment of 26 boys and girls of pre-school age. While the school has been operating for seven years, it was not conducted during the summer of the first year. A feature of the school is adult education which is provided at meetings of parents conducted on Friday evenings every other week.

Friday night's session of the Nursery school parents at the East school was the first since the school had been opened after a vacation early in the month.

Parents heard letters read from the district supervisor, Elsie Minton, who supervises the parent meetings. The group also planned a picnic for parents and their families at Heise park on Aug. 6. In case of inclement weather, the affair will be held at the East school building where the Nursery school is conducted.

Part of the time was spent in discussing weight gains of the children, and meals that are served at the school and in the home. Many of the parents told of the experiences of their children since they have enrolled at the school. Reactions to different situations were also discussed.

A child-training problem presented in rhyme was solved by the parents when it was presented as a game.

During the business session conducted by Mrs. Arthur Dawson, a new secretary, Mrs. Thomas Finney, was elected.

Mrs. Elvira Stinehelfer was adviser to the committee that served lunch. Mothers who served on this committee were Evelyn McCullough, Alice Grogg and Margaret Price.

The seventh birthday anniversary of Georgene Marshall was observed with a party this week when her mother, Mrs. George Marshall, was hostess to 16 little girls. Games and contests were enjoyed, with prizes going to Lucille Sulser, Ruth Davies, June Kellogg, Patricia Cotton, Sue Eilen, William Marcene Edwards and Judy Downing.

A farewell dinner party was given at Hotel Talbot for Frances Bernard by girl employees of the Galion Metallic Vault company office. Miss Bernard leaves soon to make her home in Columbus.

THEATERS

Bombay Adventure.

Rosalind Russell drops her screwball comedian roles for a straight dramatic part as Clark Gable's leading woman in "They Met in Bombay," showing at the Ohio. As a feminine raffles with no more conspicuous scruples about picking up diamonds and other valuables than Gable exhibits in his confidence game, Miss Russell proves an excellent foil for Gable's two-fisted tactics. Plying their talents in the Far East, the two meet up with the law and are forced to flee right into Chinese-Japanese hostilities. Peter Lorre, Jessie Ralph, Edward Cinnelli, Luis Alberni, Rosina Galli and Reginald Owen are in the cast.

Musical Romance.

Rudy Vallee, Ann Miller and Rosemary Lane top the cast in the musical romance, "Time Out For Rhythm," showing at the Madison. Glen Gray and his Casa Loma orchestra are featured as well as Brenda and Bob Hope's radio riots, and Joan Merrill Broadway night club singer. Dealing with Vallee's efforts as a theatrical agent to place his new discovery, played by Ann Miller, the picture introduces the various celebrities in hit songs and dances. Walter Pidgeon is the subject of "Man Hunt," the co-attraction, which has an ever-changing European locale. Joan Bennett and George Sanders have the leads.

Brazilian Spectacle.

"That Night in Rio," lavish technicolor production with a South American rhythm, is the attraction at the Ritz beginning Sunday. Starring Don Ameche, Alice Faye and Carmen Miranda, the picture presents Ameche in a dual role, that of a playboy entertainer pursued by his fiery partner, Carmen Miranda, and that of a Brazilian dignitary with a beautiful blond wife, enacted by Alice Faye. One of his night club feits is to impersonate the dignitary, an act that leads to all kinds of complications when Alice Faye indicates an interest. "Sunset and Wyoming," is the second picture.

Absorbing Drama. Romance of an irresponsible newspaperman and a music store salesgirl that carries the principals to Tokyo and back to California, "Penny Serenade," co-starring Cary Grant and Irene Dunne, is the attraction opening Sunday at the Park. Assigned to the 'Orient on the eve of his honeymoon, Grant sends for his bride three months later. An earthquake almost ends their happiness. Beulah Bondi and Ann Doran are in the cast. Kay Francis, in the role of a fortune hunter, and James Ellison, caught on the re-bound, are

SPEED DEFENSE TRAINING WORK

Ashland to Conduct Program On 24-Hour Schedule by End of Month.

ASHLAND — Twenty-four hour schedule is planned for Ashland's defense training program by the end of this month.

Two shifts per day have been in training for the last several weeks following the conclusion of two classes of evening students.

During the school year the shop at the high school was in operation from 8 a. m. to 12 midnight, the high school students leaving in the evening just in time for the adult group to enter. As soon as school was dismissed a morning class was started and the evening classes continued.

The new plan is for four shifts to receive shop training, each shift working from 6 to 12 and 12 to 6 around the clock. Men between the ages of 18 and 60 are eligible to join these classes if they can pass a physical examination and show aptitude for shop work.

R. H. Groff at the Ohio State employment office of J. R. Tipton at the high school may be contacted for information and material for applying for admission to the classes.

the leading players in "Play Girl," the co-attraction.

Navy Comedy.

"Sweetheart of the Navy," romantic comedy with music showing at the Majestic, concerns itself with a hard-hitting, ambitious young sailor lad and a dance hall hostess. Most of the action takes place at the night club where the out-of-funds young hostess encourages the sailor to fight the fleet's champion and thereby replenish her vanishing exchequer. Popular tunes by Tobias and Stern embellish the picture that co-features Eric Linden and Cecilia Parker. Mary Roberts Rinehart's popular story "23 1/2 Hours Leave," is the second attraction with Terry Walker and James Ellison.

SCHEDULE POT AND PAN DRIVE AT ASHLAND

Collection of Aluminum to Get Underway in County Next Friday.

ASHLAND — Final plans for the collection of aluminum were made at a meeting of committee members Friday night at the office of Mayor Howard S. Lutz, who is general chairman.

A huge bin is to be erected on the park by the old opera house at the corner of Main and Center streets and on July 24 the collection will begin. The city will be canvassed by the Boy Scouts, Cub Packs and Girl Scouts, in city trucks.

The county was divided into sections and each county commissioner will have several townships to supervise. The 4-H clubs and the Ashland County Home Council have been doing soliciting and personally calling on the residents in their vicinity to remind them of the collection for defense.

Mohican, Orange, Jackson and Perry townships were assigned to Commissioner T. J. Stence who met with the township trustees and completed arrangements for house to house canvass with designated points in each township for collection.

Clayton Harmon, with township trustees in Ruggles, Clear Creek, Troy and Sullivan have arranged for a similar order in the far northern section. In the extreme southern part of the county, Commissioner H. F. Walcott contacted the trustees and met with workers in the office of Loudonville's mayor. There they have planned to bring in their pots and pans on July 25.

Points of collection in addition to the Ashland bin, are the mayor's office in Hayesville; Joe Leisten-snider's at Savannah; Jones Blacksmith shop at Red Haw; Rowsburg school house; Mifflin town hall, Sigafos' garage for Mohican township and the mayor's office at Loudonville.

Drive carefully tomorrow—remember the "rights" of others as well as your own.

Americans will be in better position to extend the Good Neighbor policy after they get it working better at home.

"We have made our tasks infinitely more difficult," says Ambassador Winant, "because we failed to do yesterday what we gladly do today."

Public Co-operation Needed

AT SOME point in Richland county's steadily mounting record of highway slaughter there will be an awakening of public conscience to better realization of individual obligation to aid in the enforcement of traffic laws.

While some other cities and counties have succeeded in reducing traffic tragedies, Richland county's toll has been 19 deaths thus far in 1941, as compared with 10 to this date last year—ALMOST DOUBLE.

A number of factors enter into this situation—probably chief among which may be placed the habits of careless and reckless driving to which many motorists in the Mansfield area have become accustomed because of lax enforcement of traffic regulations in this city.

Public attitude thus far has been that traffic law enforcement is entirely up to the police department in the city, and to the sheriff's office and state highway patrol in the county—with few motorists willing to take the time or go to the trouble of reporting even extreme cases of reckless driving they observe.

Whatever additions may be made to the police department, it should be recognized as impossible to employ a sufficient number of patrolmen to adequately police all parts of the city—and it must eventually be recognized as a public duty to not only voluntarily observe traffic laws and regulations but also to co-operate with the police to the extent of reporting license numbers of speeders and other careless, reckless or drunken drivers.

Although a few Mansfield motorists are already locally notorious for speed and recklessness—including several "ninety-mile-an-hour" addicts—it appears that no police record of these habitual offenders is being kept. It may take only a few more such fatalities as have been occurring within the past couple of weeks to arouse greater public interest in the subject of reckless driving, excessive speed, and disregard of traffic regulations. A death due to a traffic accident may be considered commonplace—because there are so many of them—but it is a tragic occurrence for the family and friends of the victim.

Moving Toward Inflation

FISCAL policy is the core of the problem of financing the defense program without inflation or economic dislocation, says the Special Banking Studies committee of the American Bankers association, in a recent published report.

Pointing out that in the absence of appropriate preventive policies, forces now at work will lead to a severe inflation such as always has accompanied war, the committee states that action against inflation is necessary in three areas: bank credit expansion and activity, taxes and borrowing, and prices and wages.

The war boom is now gathering momentum. And all of the influences that may ultimately produce inflation are gathering momentum with it. It is apparent that so far the government has done almost nothing to prevent it. No action has been taken on the extremely important recommendations made sometime ago by the officials of the Federal Reserve System. The wage-price problem remains unsolved. And our tax and borrowing policies are dangerous in the extreme.

Delayed Bridge Replacement

NOW that the "last obstacle" to construction of a bridge over Touby's run, on North Main street, has been removed, it is hoped that the work will be started and carried to earliest possible completion.

The traffic "bottleneck" that has been permitted to remain at this heavily-traveled point for the past two years has been hazardous as well as inconvenient and the long delay in replacing the collapsed structure has never been satisfactorily explained.

It appears that what should have been done a couple of years ago has finally been done—and that the bridge which should have been built within a few months after the old one collapsed will be started in the near future—unless something happens to prevent.

Preserving History In Films

LAUGHTER is evoked by slapstick movie comedies of long ago when excerpts from them are briefly resurrected, but a serious effort, begun in 1935, to discover and preserve the typical films of all the years since pictures began to flicker on a screen is making a worthwhile contribution to history.

The result will be publicly exhibited this summer by the Museum of Modern Art in New York City. Writing of the show, which comprehends 300 films made between 1895 and 1940, the curator of the film library points out that "the screen unconsciously reflects the morals and the manners of the society that produced it." So the silver screen has literally held the mirror up to human nature for nearly a half century. But until now it has been difficult if not impossible to recapture the image.

This promises to be a fascinating show, for those who remember The Great Train Robbery, the early Chaplin films and others now called classics, as well as for those too young to have seen them. How much movie technique has changed will be disclosed—also how much the world's manners and morals have changed, for better or worse.

The war will never be won by talking about the superior resources of the democracies. While the free Allies talk, Hitler shoots and grabs.

Whatever General Lear may think about it, the girl is yet to be found who seriously objects to the friendly "yoo-hoo" of a soldier boy.

Everything seems to be going along so nicely for Orphan Annie at the moment that something startling is likely to happen any day.

It's probably too much to hope that spinach will sometime advance to a prohibitive price.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Roseland dance hall is one of those modern historic old places on Broadway without which no mention of the town would ever be complete. It is important because it has become a sort of legend, and yet it is real enough. People who haven't been there aren't sure exactly whether it's a place to dance, or something they saw in a movie.

This is largely because Roseland has been used as background for so many movies, especially in the late twenties and early thirties, and because it has served as a hitching post for many fictionists. Ring Lardner and Sherwood Anderson both went to Roseland for color for their stories.

Well, Roseland is a dance hall on Broadway where Jean Arthur and George Raft used to win prizes for doing the Charleston. It pioneered in the jitterbug-dance idea. You buy yourself a ticket and you dance with a hostess. The house provides dozens of beautiful girls. You may, of course, bring your own girl. But the head hostess, Miss Florence Forder, will introduce you to any of the girls you like. . . . And if you want to make her your partner for the evening, the fee is $2.80 an hour.

ROSELAND goes back to a New Year's night in 1919, and to John McGraw, Will Rogers, Flo Ziegfeld, and there for the premiere festivities. . . . There were roses stuck in every nook and cranny, as there are today, thus justifying the name.

The real father of the Roseland is a young man by the name of Lou Brecker, a Philadelphian, who liked dancing and who has built a career around Broadway. He has had all of the well known orchestras from time to time, and he has gone in for sensationalism on occasion—once he staged a hot wedding, with his hostesses serving as bridesmaids and the orchestra, heavy on the brass, doing strange and rhythmic things to the wedding march. But the couple were legally wed, amid the fanfare, and they are still married. Lou says they drop around to say hello and have a dance every now and then.

ON ANOTHER occasion he staged a marathon dance, but James J. Walker, who then was mayor, stopped it. Later Walker came around to see Brecker and posed with some of the hostesses, just to show there was no hard feelings.

Today, Roseland proper is a dance hall-cave. . . . That is, you can order almost any kind of non-alcoholic beverage; but liquors are not permitted. Too many youngsters come there. The only thing Brecker wants you to get "high" on—is the music.

There are interesting points to the music at Roseland. . . . Mel Hallett, Claude Hopkins, Shal Fields, Fletcher Henderson and Vincent Lopez all got their starts there. . . . The Lindy Hop, the Charleston and the Black Bottom were introduced there. . . . It has been quite a place, Roseland, on Broadway, if you like to dance.

Defense Plans Need Co-ordination

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Sick as many of us are of the very word "co-ordination," and tired as we may be of hearing of the appointment of some new co-ordinator to do this or that, it would appear that there are a few spots where co-ordination might be applied, and situations which intelligent activity by a co-ordinator might correct. All of which, of course, is with respect to the national defense situation.

On the very serious side there is the rivalry between O. P. M.—the office of production management, headed by the famous pair of "advisers" William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman—and OPAX, headed by Leon Henderson.

OPAX believes that OPM is headed for the discard, and that OPAX will eventually take over its functions. OPM naturally regards OPAX as a perhaps necessary but certainly unpleasant evil.

Neither has any REAL power. That all comes from "Papa," as the president likes to refer to himself when discussing whether this or that body, bureau or group has any power. Usually the president regards every problem as in the "study stage," another favorite expression of FDR, until it is brought to him for final decision.

THAT is why, of course, there has been no duplication of what Woodrow Wilson did in the last war, when Bernard M. Baruch was appointed chairman of the war industries board and given wide powers. At the time there was quite a bit of criticism of Baruch, naturally, but in retrospect, the job he did then looks pretty grand.

There is positively no Number 2 man in this administration. For a long time it looked as though Robert H. Jackson was IT, but he is now safely cloistered on the Supreme Court bench. Then in June, 1940, when FDR insisted on the nomination of Henry A. Wallace for vice president, it seemed that HE was IT. That seems to have faded considerably also. The truth is that the order of importance of everyone except the "Boss" himself, as John Gardner used to call him, changes from week to week. You have to read the five star final on any given day to keep up with the news.

DROPPING from the really serious situation to one of almost comic aspect, take the campaign about aluminum. In the very same edition of a Washington newspaper, recently, there was a layout of pictures of a man about to head the campaign for the collection of aluminum cooking utensils to provide airplane material, and an advertisement by a local department store of an "all purpose" aluminum cooking device which seemed to have at least ten parts, or in short to be equivalent to about ten old aluminum pots or pans.

The advertisement gave quite a job to members of a bridge party to whom it was shown, the punch being that they had been discussing seriously, before the first deal, whether they ought to sacrifice what aluminum were they had as a patriotic duty!

Needless to say the ad had quite a dampening effect on their patriotic notion.

"I'd rather give $5 to the USO," one of them said. "I know it would do good there and if the government is letting stores sell new aluminum ware I am certainly going to keep my old aluminum pans and pots, because I like them."

The point here is not that this advertisement was unpatriotic. Perhaps OPAX would approve this particular case for some reason. But it certainly hit Washington housewives who had been reading the appeals, and knew the campaign was to start within a week to collect old aluminum pans, square in the eye!

Timely Editorial

Tip For Inventors.

The trouble with our inventive genius in this country is that it's too impractical. Of course, every once in awhile, somebody comes along who invents a cotton gin, a sewing machine, an airplane, a light bulb, or some other device that more or less revolutionizes things.

But by and large our inventive minds seem to turn to trivia. Take the report of the recent exhibit of American inventors at New York. It listed, among other things:

Dentproof ashcans, bobbin pin openers, emergency coat holders, safety strap hanger for bath tub, crutch with a seat attached, broom pin that stays off the floor, diaper pin that can't be swallowed, anti-slip bathroom slippers, spring action fly-swatter, wrist band compact, and a bell that rings when a fish bites at your line.

All these are very interesting, but the crying need has not been met. Strong men blench at its lack. Women weep at its absence. Let inventive genius do something practical—and invent an automobile jack that will really work!—Kansas City Star.

This Is Ohio

On June 25, 1876, General George A. Custer and his force of 208 men were slain and scalped by a much larger force of Indians on the little Big Horn river in Montana.

Custer was born at New Rumley, Harrison county, Ohio, Dec. 5, 1839, the great-grandson of a Hessian officer named Kuster who served with Burgoyne and after the British surrender settled in Pennsylvania. Custer served brilliantly as a cavalry leader in the Civil war and was breveted a major general of volunteers.

Following the war he served in the Indian wars in the west and wrote of his experiences. After his death Mrs. Custer wrote a book dealing with the defeat in which her husband was killed.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Ask Longer Service By Selectees To Meet Need for Trained Army

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

WITH Iceland occupied, Washington's attention turned also to Portugal's islands and other Atlantic points.

The state department insisted anew the past week that the Azores and Cape Verde islands must remain "in friendly hands." Acting Secretary Welles, discussing American assurances to Portugal that it had no intention of taking over the islands, indicated that this was tempered by the determination expressed by the president that they never be occupied by Germany.

President Carmona of Portugal prepared to make a trip to the Azores. Spokesmen in Portugal said the trip would produce proof that inhabitants of the islands, 2,000 miles east of New York, want to stay aloof from the war. Troops have been reinforced.

'Shooting War' Denied.

Berlin newspapers bitterly assailed the president's policy toward the Portuguese islands. One said he is "circling like a vulture" with "aggressive intentions."

Military observers reaching Lisbon reported the French were fortifying Dakar and basing naval units there "adequate to meet anything except a full dress attack."

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) declared he "wouldn't be surprised" if the navy undertook to patrol the Atlantic all the way to Ireland and demanded to know whether it had engaged in a "shooting war." In reply, senate naval committee quoted Secretary Knox as voicing "categorical denials" that U. S. warships had fought with German ships.

General Marshall, chief of staff, told the senate military committee that specially trained army units should have been sent to Iceland instead of marines but that it would have been necessary to use some drafted men and this was impossible because they were in the army for only one year. To call for volunteers, Marshall explained, would have advertised the expedition before it got started.

Marshall made this statement in testimony supporting a proposal to take the one-year rule off.

Draftees' Fate Studied.

Congressional leaders put aside the army's request for authority to send selectees outside the Western Hemisphere but went ahead with the proposal to lengthen service. The president said there was no question of breaking faith because the law provided for changes congress thought necessary.

Marshall also urged approval of a plan to weed out officers who "are slowing down the army." In a major shake-up several comparatively young generals attained new prominence.

The president asked congress for $8,093,000 more for the army, navy and maritime commission. The commission plans to build 566 new cargo ships.

At Home

A Fifth Less Gas.

As American as hot dogs and Saturday night baths has been the habit of motorists, just out for a ride, to roar up to a filling station and pipe "fill 'er up."

Defense Petroleum Coordinator Ickes warned last week-end that the fill-'er-up era for eastern motorists is closing. Every fifth oil tanker bringing fuel from Gulf ports has been transferred to the British service; and Ickes hinted that still further transfers might be made.

Before adopting gasoline ration cards, Ickes said, a test will be made to see if enough fuel can be saved through voluntary rationing.

Canada also faced a critical shortage of gasoline because of loss of ocean tanker tonnage. Sale of gasoline and oil to motorists was forbidden at night and on Sundays.

Alleged Plots Dept.

In St. Paul, a federal grand jury charged 29 persons, mostly associated with the National Socialist Workers Party, with plotting to overthrow the government. A justice department official said the party was composed mainly of Trotskyite Communists.

In New York, another grand jury indicted 33 persons rounded up last month by the FBI in the nation's biggest spy hunt. They were accused of conspiring to send information to a foreign power and the German Reich was named as a co-conspirator.

The Time of Day.

In a move to save electricity, President Roosevelt asked congress for power to put some sections of the country on daylight saving time—in some cases as much as two hours ahead of standard time.

Congressional comment varied from that of Senator Austin (D-Vt.) who said "we like it in Vermont," to that of Senator Nye (R-N.D.) who said "I wonder what the president is going to want to control next. . . . The simplest way to gain an hour of daylight is to get up an hour earlier!"

Labor Front: Quiet.

As a government compilation showed that the number of workers on strike in defense plants had declined 75% within a month, Sidney Hillman, associate director of OPM, declared that "there is not a single strike in the nation today that is troubling the OPM."

Abroad

Vichy Gives Up Syria.

Thousands of Frenchmen could not be subdued a year ago when France was crushed. They fought on with Britain. Five weeks ago that fight pitted them against their own countrymen in French-occupied Syria.

Last week in a pathetic, real life French tragedy, Free France's homeless warriors for the first time came face-to-face with soldiers of Nazi-dominated France, but not as prodigal sons. They had helped the British conquer Syria, and as victors helped the British frame the armistice terms to their vanquished countrymen.

That Nazi Schedule.

Adolf Hitler's campaign to pulverize the Russian army is virtually a month old. Reports vary

Quotes

Ronald Tree, official of the British Ministry of Information: "Don't be impatient with the United States. Don't criticize their for doing just what we ourselves did in 1938 and 1939. Remember it is a vast continent composed of many races and many creeds."

Dr. Daniel Samper Ortega, Colombian educator, in addressing North Americans: "Germans patiently conquered the Latin American markets by giving long-term credits to anybody. You forgot Latin America for centuries and now you want to win her good will and her markets in a day."

as to the time he allowed to complete the job. Some say six weeks, some say eight. At any rate, nearly all estimates have him time at least half up.

There was little out of Moscow to indicate the Red Army was half licked. In fact Soviet spokesmen insisted that most of Hitler's army had been slowed to a walk and that in at least one section (on the Dnieper south of Vitebsk) the Germans had been thrown for a 20-mile "J-S."

British sources said the Germans had "accomplished nothing that can be reckoned as final or substantial advantage."

Japanese Shuffles.

Drastic shake-ups in Japan have twice coincided with abrupt changes in Adolf Hitler's foreign policy.

In 1939, Baron Hiranuma's cabinet was strongly committed to a common front with Germany against world Communism. It collapsed immediately after Hitler struck a bargain with the Communist Russia he had been flaying.

When Hitler back tracked again last month and attacked Russia, Nipponese political circles were thrown into consternation. The first definite reaction came during the week when the year-old cabinet of sickly Prince Fumimaro Konoye resigned.

People

Anderson's 'Tourists.'

Hundreds of furtive "tourists" began slipping into Anderson, S. C. (pop. 20,000), on July 11.

Suddenly, with darkness, smoke boiled up from smoke pots, fireworks began popping. The "tourists" arrested the mayor and seized the postoffice, newspaper, railroad, telephone, power and waterworks plants and the radio station. Troops marched into the city as a plane zoomed over the city and dropped leaflets reading: "Our army is at this moment approaching your gates in several columns. It is useless to resist. I suggest yourself with your protectors."

Anderson residents were being taught by the simulated invasion the tactics of fifth columnists. And the invaders—ROTC cadets encamped at nearby Clemson College—were being trained in the technique of subversion.

Homeward Bound.

Capt. Fritz Weidemann and Dr. Hans Borchers, expelled German consuls, missed a boat on purpose, then spent 12 hours trying catch it. The ship was a Japanese steamer out of San Francisco and the consuls refused to take their families and staffs aboard until the British had guaranteed safe conduct. When the safe conduct arrived it was too late. They packed their folks into charter planes, flew to New York and joined 464 other Axis consuls, their staffs and families, aboard the navy transport West Point, bound for Lisbon.

The West Point was formerly the America, the nation's largest liner. She will bring back American officials and newsmen expelled from Axis countries.

In Short

Accepted: By Ecuador and tentatively by Peru, an offer by the United States, Argentina and Brazil to help settle their old dispute over ownership of upper Amazon jungle land. Fighting was renewed recently.

Sentenced: Morris Schappes, English teacher at the City College of New York and a former Communist, to an 18-month to two-year prison term for testifying falsely before a state legislative committee as to the number of Communists at the college.

Died: Fred Fisher, eldest of Detroit's seven famous Fisher brothers and co-founder of the Fisher Body Corporation.

GALION GROUP PLANS OUTING FOR AUGUST 6

Parents of Pupils at Nursery School to Hold Annual Affair at Heise Park.

GALION — Now in its sixth summer, the Galion Nursery school has an enrollment of 26 boys and girls of pre-school age. While the school has been operating for seven years, it was not conducted during the summer of the first year. A feature of the school is adult education which is provided at meetings of parents conducted on Friday evenings every other week.

Friday night's session of the Nursery school parents at the East school was the first since the school had been opened after a vacation early in the month.

Parents heard letters read from the district superintendent, Elsie Minton, who supervises the parent meetings. The group also planned a picnic for parents and their families at Heise park on Aug. 6. In case of inclement weather, the affair will be held at the East school building where the Nursery school is conducted.

Part of the time was spent in discussing weight gains of the children, and meals that are served at the school and in the home. Many of the parents told of the experiences of their children since they have enrolled at the school. Reactions to different situations were also discussed.

A child-training problem presented in rhyme was solved by the parents when it was presented as a game.

During the business session conducted by Mrs. Arthur Dawson, a new secretary, Mrs. Thomas Finney, was elected.

Mrs. Elvira Stinehelfer was adviser to the committee that served lunch. Mothers who served on this committee were Evelyn McCullough, Alice Grogg and Margaret Price.

The seventh birthday anniversary of Georgene Marshall was observed with a party this week when her mother, Mrs. George Marshall was hostess to 16 little girls. Games and contests were enjoyed, with prizes going to Lucille Sulser, Ruth Davies, June Kellogg, Patricia Cotton, Sue Ellen Wilhelm, Marcene Edwards and Judy Downing.

A farewell dinner party was given at Hotel Talbott for Frances Bernard by girl employees of the Galion Metallic Vault company office. Miss Bernard leaves soon to make her home in Columbus.

THEATERS

Bombay Adventure.

Rosalind Russell drops her screwball comedian roles for a straight dramatic part as Clark Gable's leading woman in "They Met in Bombay," showing at the Ohio. As a feminine Raffles with no more conspicuous scruples about picking up diamonds and other valuables than Gable exhibits in his confidence game. Miss Russell proves an excellent foil for Gable's two-fisted tactics. Plying their talents in the Far East the two meet up with the law and are forced to flee right into Chinese-Japanese hostilities. Peter Lorre, Jessie Ralph, Edward G. Robinson, Luis Alberni, Rosina Galli and Reginald Owen are in the cast.

Musical Romance.

Rudy Vallee, Ann Miller and Rosemary Lane top the cast in the musical romance, "Time Out For Rhythm," showing at the Madison. Glen Gray and his Casa Loma orchestra are featured as well as Brenda and Cobina, Bob Hope's radio riots, and Joan Merrill, Broadway night club singer. Dealing with Vallee's efforts as a theatrical agent to place his new discovery, played by Ann Miller, the picture introduces the various celebrities in hit songs and dances. Walter Pidgeon is the subject of "Man Hunt," the co-attraction, which has an ever-changing European locale. Joan Bennett and George Sanders have the leads.

Brazilian Spectacle.

"That Night in Rio," lavish technicolor production with a South American rhythm, is the attraction at the Ritz beginning Sunday. Starring Don Ameche, Alice Faye and Carmen Miranda, the picture presents Ameche in a dual role, that of a playboy entertainer pursued by his fiery partner, Carmen Miranda, and that of a Brazilian dignitary with a beautiful blond wife, enacted by Alice Faye. One of his night club feasts is to impersonate the dignitary, an act that leads to all kinds of complications when Alice Faye indicates an interest. "Sunset and Wyoming," is the second picture.

Absorbing Drama.

Romance of an irresponsible newspaperman and a music store salesgirl that carries the principals to Tokyo and back to California, "Penny Serenade," co-starring Cary Grant and Irene Dunne, is the attraction opening Sunday at the Park. Assigned to the "Orient" on the eve of his honeymoon, Grant sends for his bride three months later. An earthquake almost ends their happiness. Beulah Bondi and Ann Doran are in the cast. Kay Francis, in the role of a fortune hunter, and James Ellison, caught on the re-bound, are

SPEED DEFENSE TRAINING WORK

Ashland to Conduct Program On 24-Hour Schedule by End of Month.

ASHLAND — Twenty-four hour schedule is planned for Ashland's defense training program by the end of this month.

Two shifts per day have been in training for the last several weeks following the conclusion of two classes of evening students.

During the school year the shop at the high school was in operation from 8 a. m. to 12 midnight, the high school students leaving in the evening just in time for the adult group to enter. As soon as school was dismissed a morning class was started and the evening classes continued.

The new plan is for four shifts to receive shop training, each shift working from 6 to 12 and 12 to 6 around the clock. Men between the ages of 18 and 60 are eligible to join these classes if they can pass a physical examination and show aptitude for shop work.

R. H. Groff at the Ohio State employment office of J. R. Tipton at the high school may be contacted for information and material for applying for admission to the classes.

the leading players in "Play Girl," the co-attraction.

Navy Comedy.

"Sweetheart of the Navy," romantic comedy with music showing at the Majestic, concerns itself with a hard-hitting, ambitious young sailor lad and a dance hall hostess. Most of the action takes place at the night club where the out-of-funds young hostess encourages the sailor to fight the fleet's champion and thereby replenish her vanishing exchequer. Popular tunes by Tobias and Stern embellish the picture that co-stars Eric Linden and Cecilia Parker. Mary Roberts Rinehart's popular story "23 1/2 Hours Leave" is the second attraction with Terry Walker and James Ellison.

SCHEDULE POT AND PAN DRIVE AT ASHLAND

Collection of Aluminum to Get Underway in County Next Friday.

ASHLAND — Final plans for the collection of aluminum were made at a meeting of committee members Friday night at the office of Mayor Howard S. Lutz, who is general chairman.

A huge bin is to be erected on the park by the old opera house at the corner of Main and Center streets and on July 24 the collection will begin. The city will be canvassed by the Boy Scouts, Cub Packs and Girl Scouts, in city trucks.

The county was divided into sections and each county commissioner will have several townships to supervise. The 4-H clubs and the Ashland County Home Council have been doing soliciting and personally calling on the residents in their vicinity to remind them of the collection for defense.

Mohican, Orange, Jackson and Perry townships were assigned to Commissioner T. J. Stence who met with the township trustees and completed arrangements for house to house canvass with designated points in each township for collection.

Clayton Harmon, with township trustees in Ruggles, Clear Creek, Troy and Sullivan have arranged for a similar order in the far northern section. In the extreme southern part of the county, Commissioner H. F. Wallett contacted the trustees and met with workers in the office of Loudonville's mayor. There they have planned to bring in their pots and pans on July 25.

Points of collection in addition to the Ashland bin, are the mayor's office in Hayesville; Joe Leistensnyder's at Savannah; Jones Blacksmith shop at Red Hawk; Rowburg school house; Milfin town hall, Sigafos' garage for Mohican township and the mayor's office at Loudonville.

CHAPTER XII

May Whittier seated herself beside Jimmy. "Well, darling, aren't you glad to see me?" she demanded gaily.

He looked anything but glad as he said, "I am surprised, to say the least! This is Miss Newton."

May turned her green eyes upon Doris. "How do you do?" she said coolly. "Jimmy has told me about you."

Jimmy looked at her furiously but she went on, "We're sharing the same cabin, I believe."

Doris tried to smile. "Oh, are we?"

May lit a cigaret. "It's going to be a wonderful trip, don't you think?"

Doris felt that she could not compete with this girl who seemed so antagonistic, so determined to make trouble. True, Jimmy had shown no sign of interest but Doris had a premonition of impending disaster. The beautiful day was dimmed. The romance which had been so perfect the night before was fraught with new danger.

"You're from Detroit?" May asked. "Do you know the Michelsons there? Pat Michelson was president of the Junior league last year."

Doris said evenly, "I don't think we would know any of the same people as Miss Whittier. I'm a working girl."

May flicked her ashes delicately. "Really? What fun?"

"I don't do it for fun," Doris said coldly.

"It's very smart to work," May continued, "but somehow I never got around to it. What do you do?"

"Sell stockings in Kline's basement," Doris said.

The eyebrows went up and the green eyes sought Jimmy's. "Well, Jimmy, why didn't you tell me? You always meet such interesting people."

The sarcasm in her voice infuriated Doris. Never had she realized before what a vast difference there was between her world and Jimmy's. How hopeless it would be if all his friends acted this way! She stole a look at him and saw that his blue eyes were hard. Poor Jimmy! It was not his fault.

Doris rose, gathering her beach robe about her, and said, "I have some unpacking to do."

Jimmy's eyes were pleading with her not to be angry. She flashed him a quick smile, which was not unnoticed by May Whittier, who called gaily, "We'll be seeing a lot of each other."

Without replying, Doris turned and went to her cabin—the cabin she must share with May Whittier until they reached New York. How ironic! How ill-fated this romance seemed to be.

May's clothes were strewn in disorder all over the room. Doris could see the labels in dresses and suits, all original models. This girl represented the crowd that Jimmy Allen was used to—wealthy, sophisticated? He had told Doris that he was tired of that life—but was he? Perhaps it had been only temporary boredom.

She hung up her own clothes neatly, telling herself that in spite of May Whittier, nothing could come between Jimmy and her again. May could make it unpleasant, to be sure, but she could not affect their love.

There was a knock. "Wireless for you, Miss Newton."

Doris opened the door and took the message from her steward. A wireless from Ricardo.

Smiling, Doris read, "I live in hope that you will return."

Dear Ricardo! Her return to Argentina was now utterly out of the question.

As she folded the message and replaced it in its envelope, May sailed into the cabin.

"South America is such a romantic place," she began.

Doris did not reply but May ranted on, "I've known Jimmy since we were kids. I suppose he told you."

Doris, arranging shoes in the wardrobe, replied, "Yes, he told me."

May lounged on her bed and looked at Doris. "He's such a darling," she informed her. "But he's changeable. You can't believe a word he says. Always mixed up with some woman. Of course he's so good-looking, women just can't leave him alone. . . . and then with his money, no man is safe. That makes quite a difference."

Doris looked straight in the eye. "Do you think so?" she said with just the slightest emphasis on the pronoun.

May colored and Doris saw that her dart had struck.

"I keep telling Jimmy," May said carefully, "that he should watch his step with women. Especially after his last experience."

Doris sat down at the dressing table and began to powder her nose.

"I suppose he told you all about his wife too?" May asked cattily. "She was a showgirl, you know. Married him for his money. It nearly broke his heart when he discovered it. Everyone else knew before he did. Poor darling! That's why he came on this trip. To forget her."

Doris sat very still. So that was it! Poor Jimmy! No wonder he had been afraid of love. He had been ashamed to tell her of his humiliation. How it must have hurt a man who was so proud, so possessive! But Doris was glad that she knew about this first marriage.

Without replying to May, she went on deck to find him. He was staring out to sea with an expression of utter despair.

"Darling!" she cried, putting her arm through his. "Jimmy dear!"

He took her hand. "I'm sorry about May, Doris. She can be a devil."

"It doesn't matter. Jimmy. It isn't you fault."

"We've known each other so long that she thinks she owns me," Jimmy complained. "There's not much I can do about it. Our families have been friends for years. We grew up together."

"So she told me," Doris informed him. "She told me a lot of things."

"She told you about my wife?"

"Yes," Doris said tenderly, "and I'm so sorry, Jimmy. I'll do everything I can to make it up to you."

She would never forget the expression on his face at that moment. The gratitude, the relief, the eagerness. Underneath his debonair front she saw that Jimmy Allen was sensitive, and had been hurt much already.

"Sweetheart!" he cried. "If you only knew how much I love you!"

This was all the reward she wanted. These words made up for the suffering, the uncertainty. No matter what had happened in the past or would occur in the future, he did love her. May Whittier was powerless.

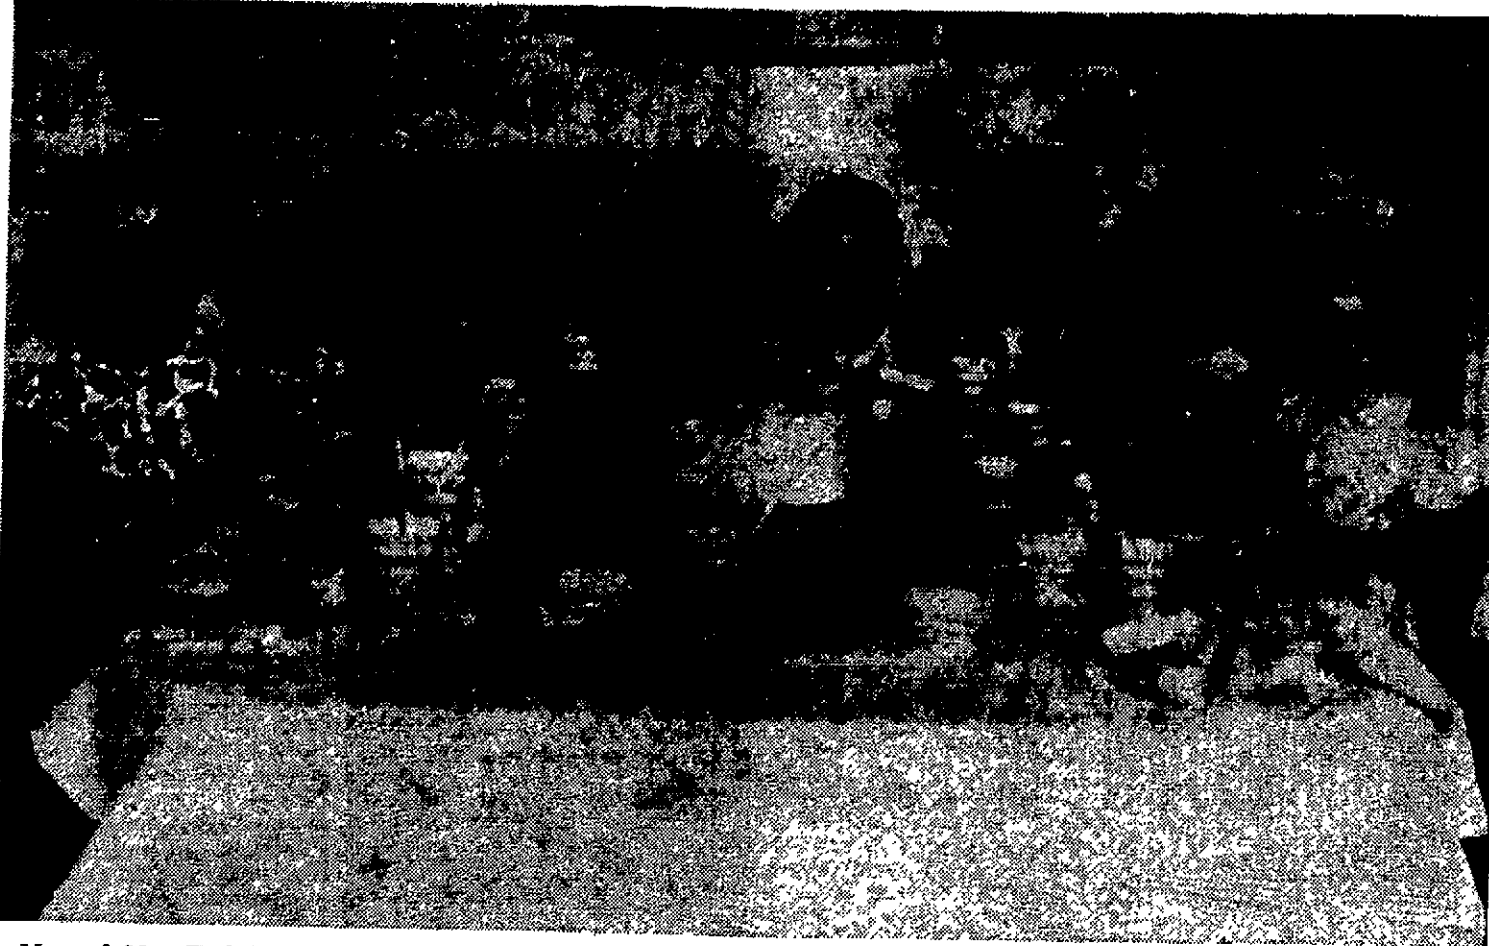

But by dinner time May seemed to have changed her attitude in a way that Doris mistrusted more than her open enmity. She was friendly to Doris, and casually affectionate with Jimmy. It was, perhaps, obvious to her now that there was nothing she could do. Jimmy's open attention to Doris, the way he looked at her, made it plain to everyone on board that she was his choice. Cleverly, May accepted this, and in the guise of an "old friend" managed to keep in his good graces. Jimmy, man-like, accepted this, unable to see through her change of tactics. But Doris felt her dislike grow each minute.

After dinner May had said, "I know you want to be alone. I'll see you later." She had flashed them her sweetest smile, while Doris did not return. All her woman's intuition warned her against this girl.

"Just try to be alone!" Jimmy complained as they milled among the other passengers on deck.

"A ship is about as private as a gold-fish bowl," Doris said. "I haven't kissed you for twenty-four hours," he whispered.

Entertains Daughter With Birthday Party

Streamlined Uniforms Are Star's Choice

By ORRY-KELLY
Famous Hollywood Stylist Writing For International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD—Mona Maris might be called, by way of describing this vivid beauty, the first real rival to Theda Bara, who menaced them all down the line a number of screen years ago. She might also be said to have the true "brunette personality." But we'll let you determine just what type she is for yourselves because our thoughts are on her extensive wardrobe and the way she makes small details big items in her simpler clothes.

The first fact about Miss Maris was garnered on the set of "Underground" where she seemed to be thoroughly enjoying the streamlined uniforms she wears in every scene.

"I love them," she said. "They're so clean cut, so trim, so neat!"

This seemed to clinch the fact that Mona prefers precisely modeled, perfectly modeled clothes with stark, somewhat asexual lines. We were right. She does, although occasionally, but only occasionally, she'll add a frill and turlow.

A striking dinner gown is typical. It's in navy crepe with long sleeves that are tight to above the elbows then flared in the modish dolman lines. The skirt is also very slender with peg top pockets that have a military restriction in myriads of narrow tricks with flowers to dress up the gown once in a while. She pins clumps of gardenias over the shoulders to suggest epaulettes.

Hailing from the Argentine Miss Maris has some good ideas for "South of the Border" touches on our North American clothes.

With tailored white flannel slacks she often wears boxy jackets of heavy linen striped in gaudy colors like the panchito shawls. What's more she wears a panchito shawl with her resort clothes.

The off-the-shoulder neckline, painting again the vivid portrait of the Spanish duenna, is her favorite one for evenings. She has interpreted it in a white piggy gown with bouffant skirt and neckline edged with antique medallions of eyelet embroidery and cord.

Many of Mona's hats have the upturned "mantera" brim which is a new hat style Northern girls like. One in kelly green straw is set over a chullo cap of white silk jersey matching her shirtmaker daytime dress.

The bigger the happier this exotic actress is. She describes a playdress in oyster white linen as having huge wine flowers larger than magnolias.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, July 20.

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds augury of very lively and interesting conditions in which there may be very pleasant as well as profitable culminations. There is promise of advancement, preference, increased fortune and enhanced prestige and popularity by taking opportunity by the forelock and by cultivating those who are in high places, whose friendship and influence are of paramount importance. But individual energy, initiative and good will are indispensable factors.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is should be on the threshold of a year of splendid opportunity and expansion. This in practical and ambitious projects and objectives supported by energy, initiative and the versatility, merit, and sound insight demanded by those in power and standing. Seek these with might and main and there should be lucrative and happy achievement with promotion and perhaps surprising fortune, possibly a gift, request or trust.

A child born on this day should have great versatility, initiative and energy as well as many personal qualities and talents to assure it a place of achievement and recognition in life. It will also be lucky.

For Monday, July 21.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a moderate degree of activity and accomplishment which may be born of steadiness, industry and sound judgment as well as enhanced by some sudden and unexpected boosts arising from secret, peculiar and surprising sources. With this there is need for alertness to intrigue, schemes and other hidden or dubious entanglements or snares. Private affairs should thrive.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of lively and interesting activities in both private and business associations. There are hints of singular or sinister involvements, coming from peculiar, baffling and hidden sources caused by grief and regret, unless sound sense, reason and not imagination, be firmly maintained. Confer with elders and escape entangling alliances and pitfalls.

A child born on this day although being responsible, industrious and capable may suffer loss of peace of mind and reputation by doubtful or sinister snares and treacheries. It should be grounded in its more stable and trustworthy traits and inclinations.

"The Authority on Authorities"

A GOOD TIME TO QUIT

How many times have you said: "I'm through with the game—for life? If you haven't, how many friends have you heard say it? Usually these come after a disastrous set, when somebody has overwhelmed you optimistically bid contract. But also you will usually find the same fellow, or girl, back at the game again before long. Once in a great while you can't blame a player for saying that, and there is at least one case on record of a player who has kept his word for eight years and gives every evidence of sticking to it. He won't even admit a game, since what happened to him once.

Edward Loewenthal, brilliant player of the old Contract Bridge club in New York, remembers this hand every time he tries to get an old friend, who sat South, to play again. But, though this hand was played at rubber bridge in 1933, poor South has never touched a card again.

Mr. Loewenthal, in the East, knew the bidding probabilities of South, so passed the first time, feeling sure he could later get himself doubled at 4-Spades. This made South count his partner for some strength. Here misreading North's heart bid over the re-double as confirming the assertion, and North's later bid of a new suit. Clubs, as indicating really quite a lot of strength. He never has tried to justify his later bids, however, most especially his re-double.

West led his diamond K. Seeing then that North had a diamond trick if South held the J, but that the suit could be run if East had it, he switched to his diamond 8, the J winning. Now the fourth-best spade felled the singleton K, which South had hoped to use to win a finesse, and the East-West players could count up 16 consecutive tricks, six in diamonds, nine in spades and the heart A. The rules prevented them from taking more than 13, the last of which was the concluding trick of South's bridge life.

Your Week-End Lesson.

Why is it often wise to false-card during your defensive play against a grand slam contract, instead of trying to convey accurate messages to your partner as you would on most occasions? Can you set up an example illustrating the value of such tactics?

PEGGY LOUISE LONG TO WED AUGUST 30

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Long Announce Approaching Marriage of Their Daughter to Fred Gordon, Son of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Gordon.

MR. AND MRS. C. E. LONG, 16 Fern avenue, announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Peggy Louise, to Fred Gordon, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Gordon, sr., 138 North Weldon, at a party given Friday evening at the home of Miss Margaret Urschel. The thirty friends of the couple in attendance learned of the couple's plans when they were served luncheon. The announcement was written on small scrolls and used as favors.

The wedding will be solemnized Aug. 30 at 6 p. m. at the home of the prospective bridegroom's parents. Games were played during the evening and prizes won by the Misses Laurel Jean Lotz, Maxine Zimmerman and Mildred Layer. Luncheon was served at the close of the evening at a long table decorated with appointment in red and gold. The table was centered with two large hearts joined by a gold wedding ring. The hostess presented the bride-elect with a gift. Other friends are planning parties for the couple to be held some time in the near future.

Mrs. Beth Gage Feted Thursday

Mrs. Beth Carver Gage was feted with a miscellaneous shower Thursday evening at the Susie Janis tea room by the Misses Aileen Turner and Dorothy Hunter. During the evening the 24 guests in attendance made a bride's book. Luncheon was served at a T-shaped table decorated with green and white appointments. Out-of-town guests present were Mrs. S. R. McMurtry, Leechburg, Pa., Mrs. Steve Wuycheck, Chicago, Ill., and Mrs. Phillip Rabel, Galion, O. The honoree was presented a gift of linen by the hostesses.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

"IT DOES NOT seem possible," Nancy Carew went on, qualifying her question. "Mary's own husband is as handsome as Steve, only in a different way. They are exactly opposite types."

I nodded assent as she paused, for she was saying only what everyone connected with our group well knew. Stephen Redfield was a big man, a six-footer, striking, flamboyant, but there was a hint of crassness about him which showed through the heavy veneer of apparent good-breeding which he had acquired.

Noel's figure was slighter, his features were more delicate, not so boldly modeled, while his words and actions were so plainly "to the manner born," that by contrast Stephen Redfield's flamboyance became coarseness.

Nancy's Fears Allayed.

I knew Mary and the fineness of her instincts so well that, when momentarily, while watching her with Redfield, I had feared an infatuation for him, I had coupled that fear with another—that the strain of her work and her success had sapped her mental strength and spiritual stamina until she was not exactly responsible for what she was doing.

But one illuminating sentence from Dicky's winsome but temperamental niece had allayed that fear, and I hastened to pass on my knowledge to Nancy Carew.

"I am sure Mary has no romantic feeling for Stephen Redfield," I said.

She shot a keen look at me. "You speak so convincingly that you allay all my worries," she said. "You must have some strong reason for your belief, however, to offset her actions in public, which I am sure you deplore as much as I do. Almost all of her associates in the play believe her to be on the point of breaking up her marriage for Redfield."

If almost any other person, outside the members of the family who love Mary, had uttered that criticism of her, I should have been strongly resentful.

Madge Promises to Act.

But I knew Nancy Carew's strong affection for her younger associate, and I knew also the sterling worth of the old actress. She never would have spoken to me of Mary in this manner if she had not been keenly concerned

Study Clubs Has Dinner Meeting

Members of the Joan of Arc Study club held a fried chicken dinner Thursday evening at North Lake park. Following the dinner the members went to the home of Miss Marie Kalbfleisch, West Fourth street, for an evening of cards. Bridge was in play during the evening and high score prizes were won by Mrs. Elizabeth Wehinger, Miss Anna Loykovich and Mrs. Emma Siebert. Luncheon was served at the close of the evening at small tables decorated with garden flowers. The next meeting will be a chicken dinner August 21 at North Lake park.

Plan Picnic at Friday Meeting

Mrs. Bessie Sheets, North Mulberry street, entertained members of the Busy Bee club at her home Friday evening. Mrs. Charles Wingert served as associate hostess. Mrs. Chester Secrist, president, conducted a short business session. Plans were made to hold a family picnic July 31 at North Lake park. Mrs. Secrist and Mrs. Mae Diesem are in charge of arrangements.

Bunco was played during the evening and prizes won by Mrs. Clyde Charles, Mrs. Floyd Fox and Mrs. Secrist. A two course luncheon was served at the close of the evening at small tables decorated with garden flowers.

about the young star of the production in which she also was featured in a character part.

My reply was prompt and emphatic.

"Indeed I do deplore the exhibition I saw tonight," I told her, "and I intend to deal with the matter drastically, as soon as I have the opportunity. And you are right in thinking that I have a strong reason for my belief that Mary's heart is not at all involved as far as Redfield is concerned."

I paused only for an instant, then told her of the slighting, humorous reference Mary had made to Stephen Redfield's valor, and of my deduction from it. Her face and eyes brightened immediately, and she gave an amused laugh.

Nancy Is Convinced.

"That surely is proof," she said, stressing the verb. "And how I wish Steve could have heard her! It would have taken some of the conceit out of him."

"But not the venom," I countered, and her face was suddenly shadowed.

"You are right," she said. "I had forgotten for the moment the things I have come to believe about his associations, and was thinking of him only as the vain, rather heartless comrade of the theater, who would endanger hearts but not lives. Now I am really terrified for Mary. If he should ever hear that gibe, he would be in a really murderous mood."

"He would never hear it, in the first place," I reassured her. In the second place, when my father arrives, with your permission, I shall tell him what you have told me, and you can be sure that our worries over Stephen Redfield, as far as Mary is concerned, will be over."

Mansfield Woman Scores Ace In League Golf Match

Sport Podge
by REX HESS

It seems that all News-Journal B league bombers Maurice Byrnes and Jim Orr needed was a golf lesson.

They were out at Possum Thursday evening with Bud Houston, league secretary, just waiting around for time for their league battles to begin.

So Dick Schwab, News-Journal printer's devil, and I told them we'd gladly give 'em a lesson for a few holes if they promised to profit by it.

Sc four holes we went, and back came Byrnes and Orr later in the evening to grab low-scoring honors in league play. Byrnes tied with Harry Fay for medal at 38, and Orr had himself a 39.

Houston proved a poor pupil, struggling in with a 46.

The lesson was given without charge.

Did we show 'em how the game should be played? Oh, no, it was an object lesson in how it SHOULDN'T be played that we gave 'em. Simple, isn't it? It is, and was.

The Tiffin Mud Hens, wallowing in the throes of financial distress, as are most of the other Ohio State league clubs, are taking a leaf from the book of the Bluefield club of the Mountain State league.

Bluefield staged a community night by getting 130 merchants to contribute 10 bucks each as hosts for a free ball game for everyone in the town and surrounding precincts.

Tiffin is trying to get five bucks each from the merchants on the promise of two free games, with Findlay Aug. 6 and Lima Aug. 8.

A similar plan is being tried at Findlay where the outlook is darker than in any other Ohio State league city.

Said Leo Urchaltz, Findlay business manager, in announcing the plan:

"We would like to have it clearly understood that this plan is not a money making proposition to any individual, but a pure and simple plan to save organized baseball in Findlay. Let it not be said that Findlay is not sports minded enough to be able to support a team in the league where cities of much smaller population are successful."

"What a wonderful opportunity." The merchants loudly cry, "To entertain the community, So baseball doesn't die!"

Colonels Hold League Lead

Five Association Games Leave Standings Same.

(By Associated Press.)

Five games were played in the American association last night but the standings today showed no one had gained or lost any ground.

Toledo and Minneapolis battled to a 6 to 6 draw after the 13th inning because of the mid-night law. Columbus and St. Paul split a double-header and Louisville and Kansas City also divided a twin bill.

The Indianapolis-Milwaukee game was postponed because of rain and a double-header will be played today.

The league-leading Louisville Colonels dropped Kansas City 3 to 1, in the first contest but missed a chance to extend a game and a half lead over Columbus by dropping the second to the Blues, 6 to 3.

Fern Bell hit a home run in each game for St. Paul, his seventh-inning four-bagger in the first encounter scoring two men ahead of him to give the Saints a 5 to 4 win over the Red Birds.

Robert Rescues Indians

Tribe Hero Saves Home Stand In Third Act.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — In the dramatized personae of the Cleveland Indians, Fellerbaiter is the hero who saves the old homestead in the third act.

Four times since the first of June he has played the role, saving the third game after Cleveland was two down, and his 2 to 1 win over the Yankees yesterday was the second time he has turned the trick against the New Yorkers. He did it also against Washington and Boston.

The Nats came here today for a week-end series of three games, but rapid Robert won't be taking part, his next assignment being against the Yankees next week when the Indians open their next 12-game road trip.

By winning yesterday in a contest shortened by darkness and rain in the eighth inning, Feller kept the Tribe within six games of the league-leading Yankees. It was the fifth 2 to 1 decision in his 19 victories.

For today's game against Washington, Joe Krakaukas will take the mound against the Indians' left-handed jinx, Ken Chase.

The two teams haven't met since Feller did his rescue act in Washington, the third week in June.

A slim youngster named Ernie White, somewhat overlooked in the shuffle, is the pitcher on whom the St. Louis Cardinals are pinning their National league pennant hopes.

He not only is the ace of the Cards, he is the best lefthander in the circuit, and he emphasized it by trouncing the Brooklyn Dodgers, 6-1, yesterday to split the senior circuit race wide open today.

He won six of his first seven decisions this season. Then when he was just about to receive recognition alongside the Fellers, Wyatts, Kiddlees, and the rest, he was knocked out of three straight games; the Cardinals lost five straight and the league lead.

What happened, says Manager Billy Southworth, is that White ate something that didn't agree with him on a hot Sunday, June 29, in Cincinnati. He couldn't finish the contest; he lost 13 pounds and he went onto the Cards' sick list.

But he looked and acted healthy yesterday in handoffing the Dodgers. As a result, St. Louis swept their two-game series and cut Brooklyn's lead to two games before heading for a week-end in Boston.

Lefty Grove failed a second time to nail down the 300th victory of his career as the Chicago White Sox nosed out the Boston Red Sox, 4-3, in 10 innings.

Dutch Leonard's six-hit hurling helped the Washington Senators beat the Detroit Tigers, 8-1, with Rudy York's 18th home run accounting for Detroit's only score.

Johnson hit his 18th home run with two on in the ninth inning, to spur the Philadelphia Athletics to a 6-5 margin over the St. Louis Browns.

The Pittsburgh Pirates and Boston Braves divided a double-header in the only National league action outside Brooklyn. Ken Heintzelman pitched a four-hitter as the Pirates bagged the opener, 5-1. Three Pittsburgh pitchers allowed only six hits in the nightcap, but two singles following a walk in the ninth inning earned Boston a 4-3 edge.

NEW YORK — (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals won their 19th game in a row, beating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3, in the first of two games played today.

St. Louis won the first game, 4-3, in the first inning. The Cardinals' lead was extended to 6-3 in the third inning by a home run by Dizzy Dean.

Here's Another Coast Star

Play of John Kramer in the New York state tennis tournament at Forest Hills stamps the coast youth as one of the threats for the national amateur championship in September. Kramer has been a tennis topnotcher for two years. He is shown here in action in the New York tourney.

National Net Champ Drops Seventh Straight Tourney

By BILL BONI
NEW YORK — (AP) — This being a year notable for streaks of one sort or another, you may be interested to know that national tennis champion Don McNeill owns one of the "other kind."

To put it bluntly, McNeill hasn't won a tournament since he took the U. S. singles title last September at Forest Hills. He dropped his seventh straight yesterday when Ladislav Hecht, who used to play on Czechoslovakia's Davis cup team, whipped him in the quarter-finals on the New York state clay court championships.

For the benefit of those who might rush to console the young Oklahoman, however, it should be pointed out that, while he isn't too happy about the punching-around, neither is he weeping.

So far as McNeill is concerned, nothing will be official until the racketeers turn into Forest Hills late in August. If he can win on that occasion it will make up for all defeats.

"That's the only one that really counts, and I've been pointing for it all along," said Don after losing to Hecht.

"I'll admit my game hasn't been at its peak, but I don't think it's anything serious. It hasn't been a slump in any particular part of it, but a slight falling off all around.

"Another thing, we've been playing on clay courts, and my game doesn't go so well there."

Between tournaments McNeill worries some about what he'll do come winter. But the U. S. army may solve this problem. He has been classified in 1A pending his physical examination.

Storm Keeps Streak Intact

Injury Removes Ankrum From Brave's Lineup.

Rain postponed the Mansfield Braves' bid for their eighth straight victory last night as their ladies night engagement with the Fostoria Red Birds at the Fairground was washed out.

Yesterday's storm preserved the Braves' record of eight straight home game victories, however, and this consecutive game streak goes on the block in a double header tomorrow with the Findlay Oilers.

Tonight the Braves go to Fostoria, if the weather permits, and Pat Patterson, who was slated to do the hurling last night, probably will get the mound call, if any.

Just in case the Braves do get to play tonight, and Patterson pitches, Manager Alex Clossman has Freddy Wolpert and Jim Coleman well rested up for the Sunday hill assignments. The first game tomorrow is booked for 1:30 p. m.

The Braves will be forced to play at least several days, maybe longer, without the services of Bobby Ankrum, flashy shortstop, who injured his ankle in Wednesday night's victory over Fremont.

Clossman announced today that Graf Moore will take over the shortstop area and that Dick Morse will return to his old post at third base during Ankrum's absence.

The little professional from Hershey, Pa.—whose power off the tee is a never-ending source of wonderment to the galleries—led the field as the $5,000 Chicago open championship headed into its second round at Elmhurst Country club today. And from the day he put together a card of 35-33-66 yesterday there were few willing to wager he won't be in front when the 72-hole test winds up tomorrow evening.

Hogan's five under par performance made him a virtual cinch to finish in the money—within the first 15 places. Should he do this it will be a 51st straight tournament in which he has shared in the prize awards—the most remarkable streak the game ever has known.

One stroke off the pace was Bud Williamson from Fort Wayne, Ind., who a card of 35-32-67. The remainder of the field, however, was well strung out.

Ex-Champ Battles Stanahan

McCarthy Faces Youth For Ohio Amateur Golf Crown.

TOLEDO — (AP) — A seasoned 35-year-old campaigner and a youngster just starting his climb up the golfing ladder, battled today for the Ohio amateur golf championship at the Inverness Country club.

Maurice McCarthy, Jr., Cincinnati veteran and three-time former state champion, and 18-year-old Frankie Stanahan of Toledo, were the two survivors who clashed in the 36-hole match play final over the tricky Inverness layout.

Stanahan, who recently won the Arizona state crown, had to go all out yesterday to eliminate Tommy Whiteway of Cleveland in his semi-final test, one up.

McCarthy, three down at the end of the first 18 holes, snapped back with a great afternoon round to defeat 21-year-old Bob Pollex of Toledo, 3 and 2.

The Cincinnati star stumbled through a bad morning round in which he accumulated 81 strokes but he came back in the second 18-hole round with a string of pars to even the match at the 28th hole and kept on winning to end the duel.

Stanahan breezed through the first 18 holes of his match with Whiteway and had the Cleveland four down at the halfway mark.

Whiteway still had some good golf left and surged back to even the match on the 25th hole. They were still knotted on the 33rd but Whiteway missed the green on the 34th hole, chipped short, and then missed his putt. Stanahan won the hole to go one up. They halved the next two holes.

After being three down at the end of 18, McCarthy rallied to square his match with Pollex at the 28th. They halved the 29th and then Pollex faltered under the pressure to lose the next three holes. The Toledo "darkhorse" came back to capture the 33rd with a par four but McCarthy closed the match on the 34th when Pollex went two over par and McCarthy posted a bogey five.

On the basis of tourney experience, McCarthy was a slight favorite to capture his fourth state crown today but Stanahan had plenty of supporters. McCarthy grabbed the state title in 1934, 1937 and 1938 and went to the finals in 1936.

Young Stanahan, however, has been going great guns in tourney play this season and recently won the tough Trans-Mississippi meet.

Mioland Seen As Favorite

It's Same Old Story In Western Feature.

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — It's the same old story today—A. C. S. Howard horse against the field—as the finest thoroughbreds campaigning in the west meet in the fourth running of the $75,000 gold cup handicap at Hollywood park.

Fifty thousand or more race fans, plus virtually every handicapper in the park, went overboard on Mioland, Howard's crack four-year-old hope to duplicate gold cup victories by his Seabiscuit and Kayak II.

Slated to parade postward in the mile and one quarter race with Mioland were such outstanding entries of Porter's Cap, the favorites staminate; Edward S. Moore's Big Pebble, winner of the Widener cup last winter; Wolf Wolf, who gave Mioland a challenge in the American handicap two weeks ago, and a paper-weighted colt from Harry L. Warner's stable, Paperboy.

Sweetie, No Competition, Ship Biscuit, Transient, Wing and Wing, Touch and Go and two Argentine contenders, Don Juan II and the mare, Barrancosa, owned by Bing Crosby and Lin Howard, rounded out the entries. Post time is 5:25 p. m. (8:25 p. m. EST.)

Mioland, with Buddy Haas in the stirrup, ruled the odds on favorite despite high weight of 130 pounds. Even Tom Smith, Mioland's trainer who ordinarily wouldn't predict the dawn of a new day, admitted his horse was the one to beat. Those were tall words for the silent one.

Agent, Clerk Settle Publinks Tourney

INDIAN CANYON COURSE, SPOKANE, Wash. — (AP) — Slender Jack Kerns, a Denver insurance agent, and Bill Welch, tool room clerk for a Houston oil company, went out today to settle the national public links golf championship.

The bespectacled Kerns beat Art Pomy, Detroit auto salesman, in the 36-hole semi-finals yesterday, 5 and 4, while Welch eliminated Pete Doll of Louisville, the Kentucky amateur champion, 4 and 3.

Sinks Tee Shot In Match

FLORENCE ADAMS
Holding the stick that did the trick, Mrs. Adams grins happily over the hole-in-one she scored yesterday on No. 2 green at Possum Run during a News-Journal Ladies league match.

Florence Adams Sinks Tee Shot at Possum.

THE first hole-in-one reported this year on Mansfield golf courses was scored yesterday at Possum Run by a woman, and in a league match.

Florence Adams, No. 1 player on the Meder Recreation team of the News-Journal Ladies league, used a spoon to hole her tee shot on the second green of the Possum layout.

Mrs. Adams, wife of Dr. Leopold Adams, recently broke 40 for the first time since taking up golf, shooting a 39 in league competition.

All of these bits of information are mere details in the story of this amazing ace. The best of the yarn is yet to come.

Mrs. Adams and her opponent, Mrs. V. H. Oberlander, had to wait on the tee until Greenskeeper Frank Ryan PLACED THE CUP WHERE SHE WAS GOING TO SHOOT.

Ryan was working on the green when the two women approached the tee, changing the cup from the front of the carpet to a spot near the middle.

He was picking up his tools and preparing to move on to the next green when Mrs. Adams teed off. Her spoon shot on the 123-yard hole cleared the sand trap in front of the green, landed to the left of the rug, turned to the right and rolled straight for the cup, hitting the pin and dropping into the can for an ace.

"In 18 years of working on golf courses," Ryan declared, "that's the first hole-in-one I ever saw. I've heard about 'em being made just before or just after I worked on a green, but that's the first time I was ever around to see it actually happen."

Although three aces were scored at Possum Run last year, the last one by Harry Fay, only two had been made on No. 2 in the four years Irish McGee has been operating the course.

The ace didn't help Mrs. Adams' game from there on.

"I was completely unnerved," she admitted, "and my drive on No. 3 had to struggle to get halfway up the hill. I had to sneak up to the greens after that."

But even with this nerve-racking experience she turned in a 42-45-87 to win her match, 6 and 4. It was the only match completed in the women's league yesterday, others being halted by rain.

JUDGE PUFFLE—

By Gene Ahern

YOU'VE ALWAYS BEEN ABLE TO WIGGLE OUT OF GOING TO WORK OTHER TIMES—BUT THIS HAY-FEVER EXCUSE WON'T GET YOU OUT OF THAT JOB AT THE ZOO, AT ALL!

WELL, YOU'LL SEE WHEN YOU GO WITH ME MONDAY TO THE ZOO!—I WON'T BE NEAR THE RACCOONS AND THEIR DIST OF HAY. A MINUTE, WHEN I'LL START A VIOLENT BARRAGE OF SNEEZING!

BLESS COUSIN ROBIN, FOR HIS INSPIRED IDEA OF GIVING ME A CAN OF SNUFF TO TAKE ALONG.

“HAY-FEVER” BY THE PINCH.

WANTED FOLKS WHO NEED $20 TO $500 TO INVESTIGATE OUR LOAN PLAN

Rates are not the same of all loan companies. We publish our payments and our rate of charge to help you shop for a loan.

Loans are made three ways: (1) on signature; (2) on car; (3) on furniture. No endorses. Friends or relatives are not told. Fair treatment in case of sickness or unemployment. Payments include charges of 2% monthly on balances to $30 and 2 1/2% monthly over $300—the same rate to everyone. Nothing else to pay. To apply—phone, write or visit office. ‘MIDGET CHEMISTRY’

AMES, Ia. — INS — “Midget chemistry” is providing lots of fun, as well as education, for Iowa State college freshmen. Test tubes are about the size of little fingers and liquids are measured with eye droppers. Besides proving an entertaining novelty for students, midget chemistry is said to be safer and more healthful as well as more economical.

About nine-tenths of the Canadian population lives within 200 miles of the United States.

LOOK AT THAT SWAGGER KID GROOMED UP LIKE A SHOW HORSE—WHAT A TRANSFORMATION!

GOOD-DAY, MISS NEBB—DOES THIS OUTFIT SUIT YOU BETTER?

IT SUITS YOU BETTER—YOU REALLY ARE NOT A BAD-LOOKING BOY WHEN YOU DRAPE YOURSELF IN PROPER RAIMENT.

BUT I HOPE YOU'RE NOT DOING THIS FOR ME—THE ADVICE I GAVE YOU WAS FOR YOURSELF—I HOPE YOU UNDERSTAND.

I DIDN'T DO IT FOR ANYBODY ELSE—YOU'RE A SWELL KID AND YOU'RE GOING TO LEARN TO CARE FOR ME—I DON'T KNOW OF ANY COUPLE EACH OTHER WHO WERE SO NICELY MATCHED.

BRICK BRADFORD—On the Throne of Titanla.

By William Ritt and Clarence Gray

WITH THE THUNDER OF GREAT PADDED PAWS, THE STRANGE CAVALCADE MOVES OUT OF THE CAMP OF THE BORDER GUARDS.

I DON'T CARE ABOUT MYSELF, BUT IF THESE FOLKS TRY TO HARM JUNE—WELL, THEY'LL HAVE A FIGHT ON THEIR HANDS!

MICKEY MOUSE—Said One Executive to Another!

By Walt Disney

I DON'T GET IT. I'VE GIVEN ME A JOB APPARENTLY BECAUSE I DON'T KNOW ANYTHING ABOUT IT.

MR. MCCrackenPOT? I'VE JUST BEEN HIRED BY YOU.

TOO BAD SON, THAT'S YOUR HARD LUCK!

BY THE WAY... DID A B TELL Y WHAT THE WORK WAS?

NO, SIR! HE SAID I'D BE THIRD ASSISTANT DIRECTOR BUT HE DIDN'T EXPLAIN THE... UH, DUTIES!

WELL, THE FIRST DUTY IS TO TAKE THOSE PAINT JARS TO THE WASH-ROOM AND CLEAN 'EM OUT!

OH, UH, YES, SIR!

AND JUNK THAT "SIR" MY NAME'S "MAC"!

BRINGING UP FATHER—

By George McManus

WELL, MAYBE MAGGIE IS RIGHT. BEING OUT HERE IN THE COUNTRY WILL DO ME GOOD. THERE'S NOTHIN' LIKE THE AIR IN THE COUNTRY FOR ANY-ONE'S HEALTH.

HERE COMES MAGGIE. SUPPOSE HE IS AN OLD PIONEER IN THIS NECK OF THE WOODS.

NO—YOU'RE WRONG—I'VE ONLY BEEN HERE ABOUT TWO MONTHS.

YOU DON'T LOOK WELL. HAVE YOU BEEN ILL VERY LONG?

NO—ONLY SINCE I'VE BEEN HERE.

THE GUMPS—Found: His Diamond In the Rough.

By Gus Edson

WHERE IS SHE? THAT MURDER WE WERE FROM YOU SEVERAL DAYS AGO?

D-DON'T GET EXCITED MR. GUMP—WE'RE SORRY YOU WEREN'T SATISFIED—WE WILL BE GLAD TO FURNISH ANOTHER MAID FOR THE SAME FEE, SIR—

NO-NO-IT WAS JUST A LITTLE MISUNDERSTANDING—WHERE CAN I LOCATE THAT SAME MAID? SHE'S A GEM! A JEWEL!!

H-HOW NICE—SHE'S OUT IN THE WAITING ROOM NOW—I'LL BUZZ FOR HER.

WHATZAMARRA? YOU LOOK FOR MORE TREASURABLE ZAP?

IT WAS ALL A TERRIBLE ERROR! I PROMISE EVERYTHING WILL BE DIFFERENT—COME BACK—I'LL DOUBLE YOUR SALARY!

DICK TRACY—Jewel Box.

By Chester Gould

PUT DOWN THOSE SPARKLERS!

HE'S GONNA BEAT IT OUT THE WINDOW.

STOP! YOU DIRTY CUR!

DON'T SHOOT. WE DON'T WANT THE COPS.

IN THE SEAT—I HIDE 'EM IN THE BUS—SEAT.

COME ON, PAT. WE'RE HEADING FOR THE BUS YARDS.

TILLIE THE TOILER

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

GLORYOSKY, ZERO...I'M SO HAPPY I WANNA JUMP UP AN' DOWN AN' HOLLER, 'HURRAY, HURRAY'!

THE HUMMING BIRD WAS ALL READY TO START FOR CHINA YESTER-DAY, WHEN CAPTAIN JIM GOT A MESSAGE... HE'S GOTTA WAIT A FEW DAYS BEFORE HE KIN SAIL AWAY.

MRS. JIM HAD MY CLOTHES ALL PACKED UP FOR ME TO GO AN' LIVE AT CAPTAIN ROBERT'S GREAT BIG HOUSE... CAPTAIN ROBERT IS CAPTAIN JIM'S SON... I THINK HE'S GRAND, BUT...

THERE'S NOBODY LIKE CAPTAIN AN' MRS. JIM IN THE WHOLE WORLD... AN' NO PLACE AS NICE TO LIVE AS ON THE HUMMING BIRD... MAYBE IN A FEW DAYS I'LL NOT BE SO SCARED OF MOVIN'!!!

NATURALLY, ROBERT...I WAS SURPRISED WHEN YOU INFORMED ME YOU HAD PROMISED YOUR FATHER AND MOTHER WE WOULD TAKE CARE OF A LITTLE ORPHAN GIRL.

BUT I THOUGHT IT WOULD BE A DELIGHTFUL SURPRISE FOR YOU... LITTLE ANNIE IS A WONDERFUL KID...YOU CAN'T HELP LOVING HER.

I HAVE NO DOUBT THE LITTLE GIRL IS EVERYTHING YOU SAY... BUT YOU KNOW HOW BUSY I AM WITH MY SOCIAL OBLIGATIONS AND CLUBS... I HAVEN'T MUCH TIME TO ACT AS NURSE MAID FOR A STRANGE CHILD.

CAPTAIN JIM WAS MAD AS A HATTER WHEN HE FOUND OUR SAILING WAS DELAYED A FEW DAYS... BUT I'M GLAD TO HAVE A FEW EXTRA DAYS TO SHARE WITH YOU.

HONEST, MRS. JIM, I THINK YOU'RE GRAND.

LOOK, ZERO...IT'S CAPTAIN ROBERT! COME ON...LET'S RUN LIKE ANYTHIN'!

HOWDY, LADYBIRD... BY JUPITER, YOU LOOK CUTER EVERY TIME I SEE YOU.

OH, G'WAN, CAPTAIN ROBERT... YOU'RE JUST FOOLIN' ME.

YES, DAD...WE WEIGH ANCHOR AT HIGH TIDE... JUST A SHORT TRIP TO AFRICA AND HOME AGAIN... I'LL BE BACK BEFORE YOUR HUMMING BIRD IS HALF-WAY TO CHINA.

GEE, ZERO, SAILORS ARE FUNNY... THEY GO SAILIN' 'WAY 'WAY 'CROSS THE OCEAN JUST LIKE THEY WERE GOIN' TO THE CORNER TO GET AN ICE CREAM SODA!

HONEST, ZERO, I KINDA GOT THE WIM-WAMS... LOTS AN' LOTS A FOLKS IN TOWN ASKED CAPTAIN JIM TO LET ME STAY AT THEIR HOUSE WHEN HE AN' MRS. JIM SAIL FOR CHINA.

THEN CAPTAIN JIM SEZ I WAS GONNA LIVE WITH HIS SON, CAPTAIN ROBERT IN A GREAT BIG, SWELL HOUSE... AN' THAT MADE ME FEEL GLAD ALL OVER.

NOW ALL THE FOLKS WHO WANTED ME TO LIVE AT THEIR HOUSE DONT SEEM TO BE SO FRIENDLY LIKE THEY USED TO BE... I GUESS THEY THINK I DONT LIKE 'EM ANYMORE.

BUT I DO LIKE 'EM... I THINK THEY'RE GRAND... I WISH I COULD LIVE AT EVERYBODY'S HOUSE... BUT I CANT AN' THAT MAKES ME FEEL BAD ALL OVER!

LOOK, ZERO...THE TWO OFFICERS FROM THE BIG WAR-SHIP ARE SAYIN' GOODBYE TO CAPTAIN JIM... 'THEY'VE BEEN TALKIN' TO HIM FOR A LONG TIME... I GUESS IT MUST BE TERRIBLE IMPORTANT.

YES, HONEY...EVERYTHING'S READY...THE HUMMING BIRD SAILS TOMORROW AND YOU'LL LIVE AT OUR SON, ROBERT'S HOUSE UNTIL WE RETURN.

YOU'LL BE A MEMBER OF CAPTAIN ROBERT'S FAMILY AND I KNOW YOU'LL BE A GOOD LITTLE GIRL WHILE WE'RE GONE...AND IM SURE YOU'LL BE VERY HAPPY.

YES, MA'AM...I'LL BE TERRIBLE GOOD ALL THE TIME AN' I KNOW EVERYTHING WILL BE SWELL... BUT I GUESS I JUST CANT BE AS HAPPY AS I WOULD BE IF YOU AN' CAPTAIN JIM WEREN'T GOIN' AWAY.

KEEP YOUR CHIN UP YOUNGSTER, AND WE'LL BE BACK FROM CHINA QUICKER THAN YOU CAN SAY, 'JACK ROBINSON'.

GOODBYE, DARLING...I'LL BE PRAYING FOR YOU EVERY NIGHT... AND I KNOW YOU'LL BE SAFE AND HAPPY IN OUR SON'S HOME.

YES, SIR...I'LL KEEP MY CHIN UP AS HIGH AS I KIN... I'LL PRAY FOR YOU, TOO, MRS. JIM.

COME ON, ZERO...WALK FAST AN' DONT LOOK BACK OR CAPTAIN JIM WILL SEE WE'RE NOT KEEPIN' OUR CHIN UP VERY HIGH.

THERE NOW, ABIE GIRL...DONT FEEL SO BAD...WE AN'T PARTING FOREVER WITH THE YOUNGSTER... SHE'LL FIND A SNUG HARBOR IN OUR SON'S HOME.

LOOK, REGGIE, EFFIE'S PUTTIN' ALL THE MONEY WE'RE MAKIN' IN THIS COOKIN' SCHEME BACK INTO THE BUSINESS!! WE'RE NEVER GOIN' TO GET OUR NEW BASE-BALL UNIFORMS PAID FOR AT THIS RATE!!

NOT IF SHE KEEPS ON BUYIN' NEW COOK-STOVES AND CASH REGISTERS... AND THAT SORT OF THING!!

RIGHT!... BUT THIS HOPPIN' CAR'S A FIRST RATE! AT THE CURB FOR HER, IS A PRETTY NICE RACKET... I'M CLEANIN' UP ON TIPS!! HOW ARE YOU MAKING OUT?

OH, I'VE MADE TWO SWILLINGS ER-AH-I MEAN FIFTY CENTS SO FAR THIS MORNING!

GEE, THAT'S SWELL!! NOW LOOK... I FIGURE IF WE ALL GET TOGETHER 'N' POOL A PART OF OUR TIPS WE CAN GET OUR UNIFORMS PAID FOR!! WILL YOU COOPERATE?

I WILL MUGGS!

OH, I'M SORRY, OL' LOOK... I REALLY CAN'T DO THAT, Y'KNOW!! ER-IM-ER-PUTTIN' MY MONEY BACK IN THE COOKIN' BUSINESS, TOO... SO TO SPEAK!

...I'M ALREADY INDEBTED TO MISS BROADFOOT FOR THREE PANS OF ONION CORNBREAD WHICH I CONSUMED YESTERDAY... AND I'M A SHILLING SHORT ON WHAT I PLAN TO CONSUME TODAY!!

NOW AHM A GOIN' OUT TO THE WOODSHED 'N' AM WANT YOU T' KEEP AWAY FROM MY NEW CASH REGISTER!!... IT'S MY PRIDE 'N' JOY 'N' AH DONT WANT YEW TAMPERIN' WIT IT!! UNDERSTAN?

TA-TA!

GLANG!!

GOSH, REGGIE... WHAT'S THE MATTER? WHAT ARE YOU MAKING SUCH A FACE ABOUT?

OOOH... M'WORD!!

THESE HOG JOWLS 'N' BLACK-EYED PEAS OF EFFIE'S ARE AWFULLY SALTY TODAY!!

THEY'RE WHAT?

OH, HELLO!! ER, AH... I WAS JUST TELLIN' MUGGS THAT THESE HOG JOWLS 'N' PEAS ARE AH... VERY, VERY SALTY.

YEAH?

BUT IT'S JUST THE WAY I LIKE IT!!

WAL... THANK'E AHM RIGHT PROUD THYAR YA SAY THEET!!

IM TELLIN' YA, ANOTHER SALESMAN GOT TO EFFIE THIS MORNING AND SHE BOUGHT THE BIGGEST REFRIGERATOR I'VE EVER SEEN!!

WHAT?.. COME ON!! WE'VE GOT TO TALK TO HER!!

OH, M'GOSH!!

LOOK AT THE SIZE OF THAT THING!

EFFIE!! WHAT ON EARTH ARE YOU DOING IN THIS THING?

PEELIN' A FEW SWEET 'P'ATERS!! HOW DO Y'LIKE THIS HYAR NEW CONTRAPSON?

BUT, EFFIE!! WHY SUCH A BIG ONE?

CAUSE... JES AS TH SALESMAN SEZ... AHM TOO YOUNG 'N' PURTY TO WASTE ALL M' LIFE OVER A HOT COOKSTOVE! NOW SCRAM!

MUGGS, THIS VOLUME ON "THE CARE AND SPENDING OF MONEY" WAS GIVEN TO ME BY MY UNCLE IN EDINBURGH PERHAPS YOU COULD GET MISS BROADFOOT TO LOOK IT OVER

I GET YA!! THEN MAYBE SHED BE MORE CAREFUL ABOUT SPENDIN' ALL THIS MONEY SHE'S MAKIN'!! SWELL IDEA!

LOOK EFFIE IN APPRECIATION OF ALL YOU'RE DOIN TO TRY N MAKE MONEY FOR NEW UNIFORMS THE TEAM WANTS YOU TO ACCEPT THIS LOVELY BOOK AS A GIFT!!

WAL, AH SUWANNEE!! IF THET DONT TAKE THE CAKE!

THE BOYS WANT YOU TO READ AND STUDY IT... VERY CAREFULLY!!

SHUX AH HAIN'T GOT NO TIME FER READIN' N' TRYIN T'BIT A TAIL-HOLT ON LARNIN' JES NOW... BUT THIS HYAR'S JUS TH THANG AH NEED

T' TAKE TH' WOBBLY-RICKETS OUT O' THIS HYAR SHORT-LEGGED KITCHIN TABLE!!

SAY, SKEETER, REGGIE TOLD ME THAT EFFIE IS GOING TO BUY OUR NEW UNIFORMS OUT OF HER RESTAURANT PROFITS!!

WELL THAT'S NEWS TO ME!!

THAT'S THE LEAST SHE COULD DO!! SHE'S BEEN PUTTIN' ALL THE PROFITS INTO NEW KITCHEN EQUIPMENT!!

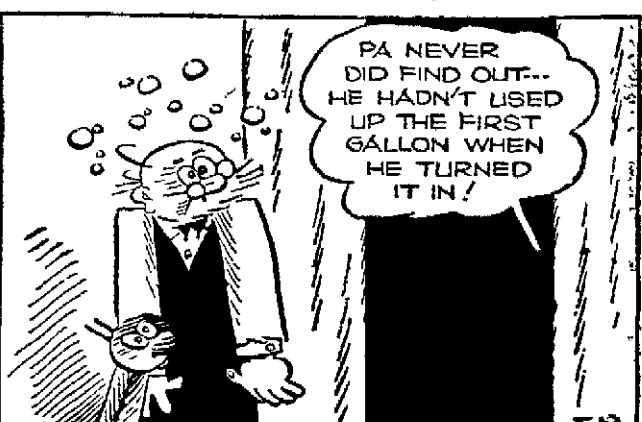

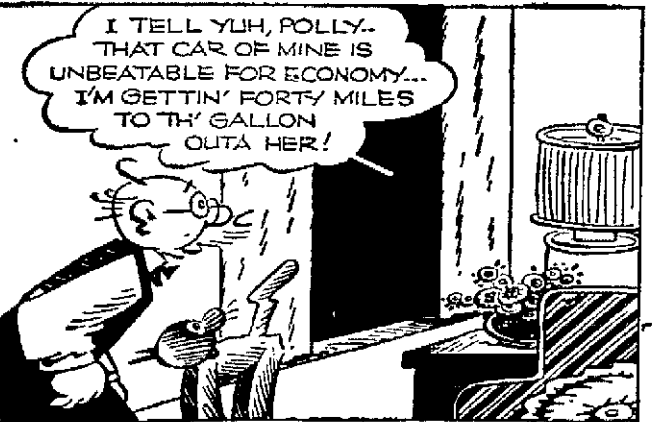

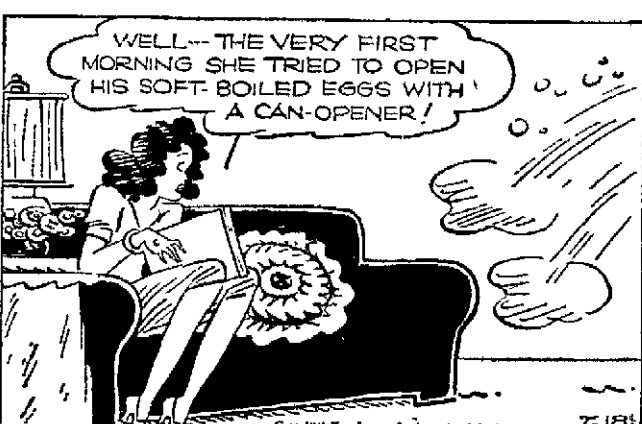

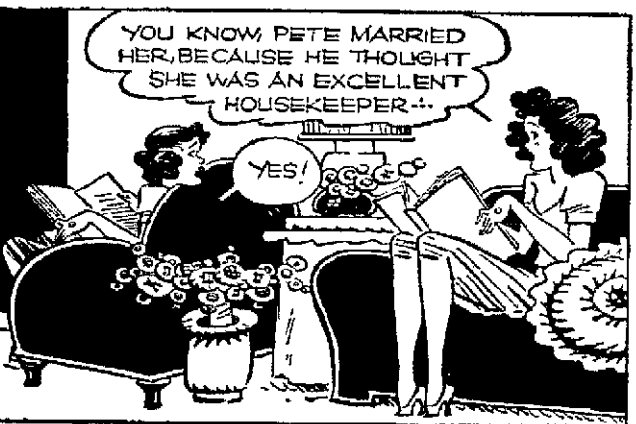

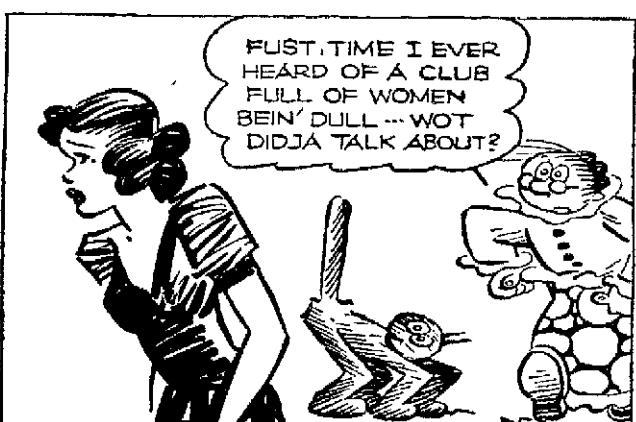

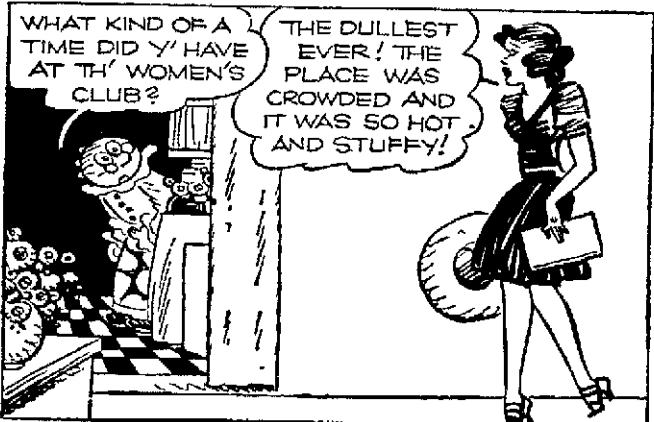

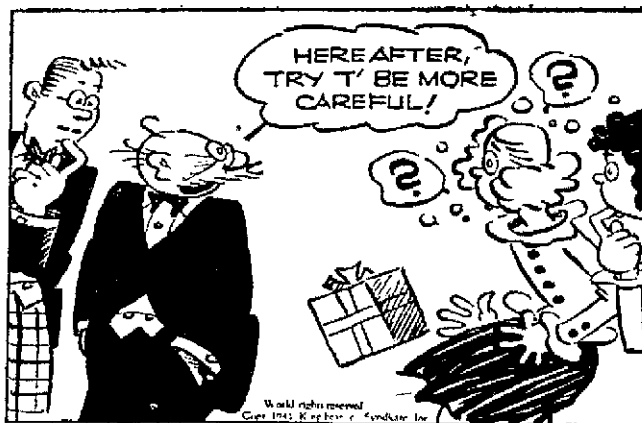

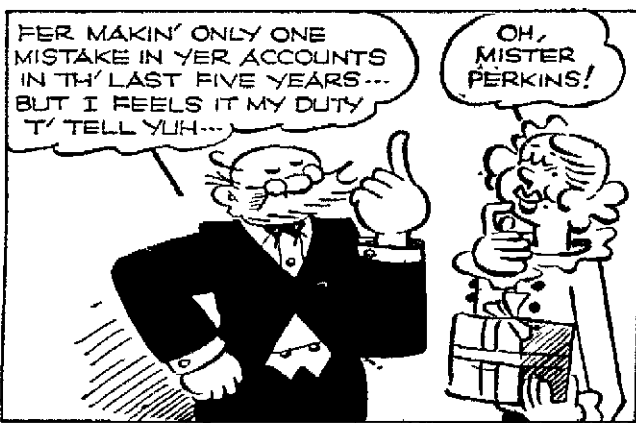

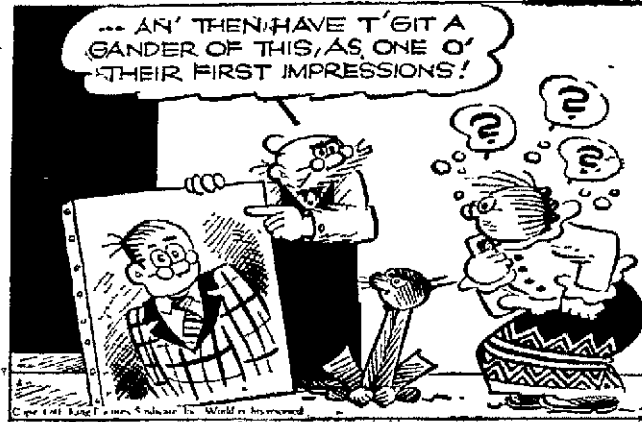

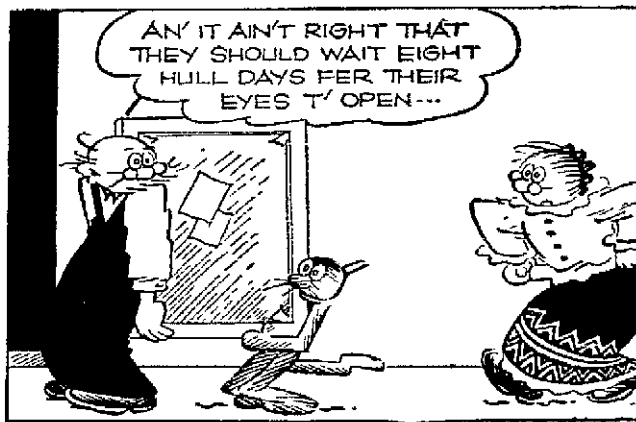

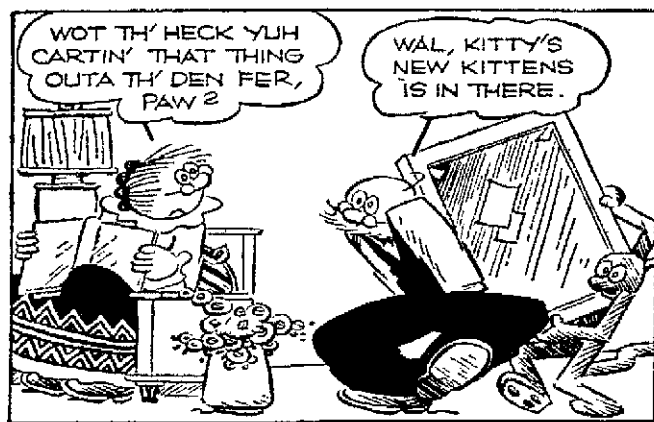

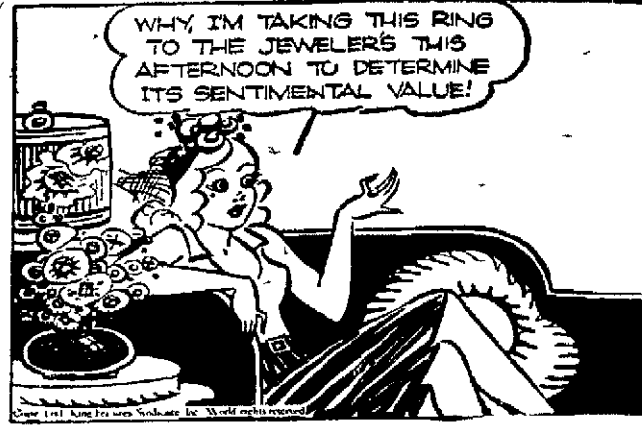

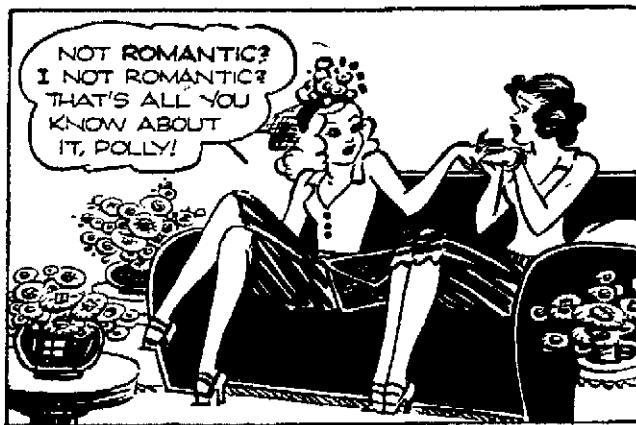

LET'S ASK HER ABOUT IT!!

LISTEN, EFFIE IS THAT TRUE WHAT REGGIE SAID ABOUT YOU GOIN' T'BUY NEW BASE-BALL UNIFORMS FOR US

AHM AFERD TH' LITTLE FURRINER MIS-ON-PEER-STOOD

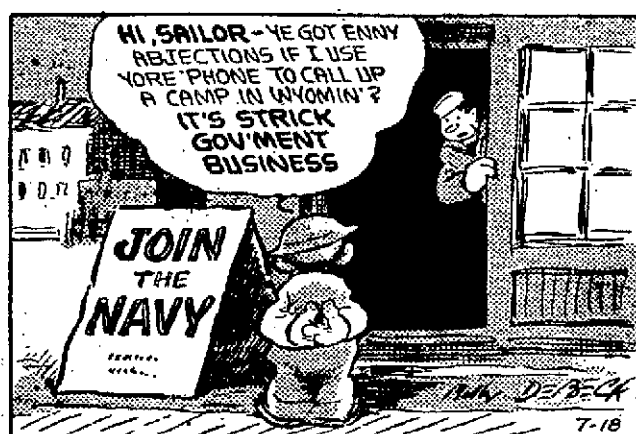

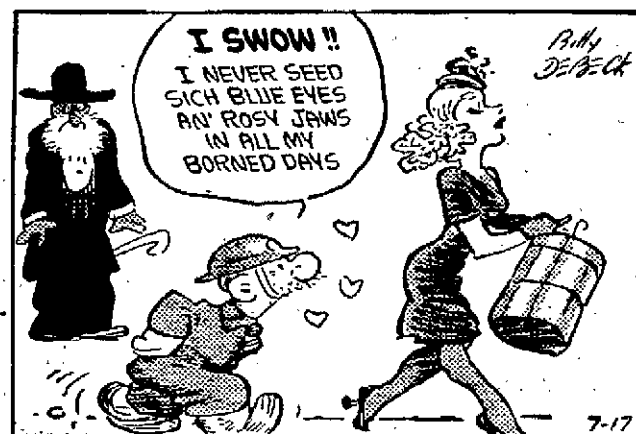

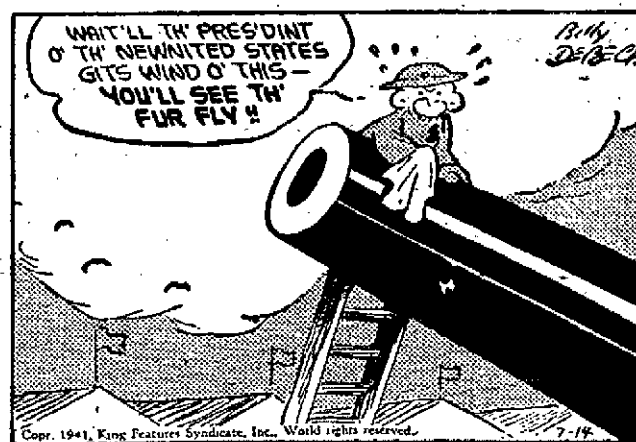

...WHUT AHM A BUYN' IS WAITERS' UNIFORMS!! THIS IS A FIRST CLASS EATIN' EMPORIUM AN M'HELP WILL HEY TO DRESS TH PART!
